

Hello Mr. Tounget -

I'm writing because I am a Crestview resident and was hoping to attend the meeting with the ICRC commission tomorrow, (9/4/2013). Unfortunately, that day falls on Rosh Hashanah, a high holiday in the Jewish religion. I am sure you are aware that the Austin JCC (Jewish Community Center) is located next to Anderson HS, (where the meeting is to take place) and that its highly likely that a large amount of residents will not be in attendance due to the holiday.

I do not understand why the commission chose Rosh Hashanah to hold this meeting. I just found out about it via my community newsletter. Is there any other way to participate in the process and make our voices heard than this meeting – specifically as it concerns the Crestview, Brentwood, and other neighborhoods in the area?

Please let me know what I can do to participate – many of my neighbors and friends in the area are concerned.

Many Thanks,

Matthew Armstrong | Customer Engagement
p 512 684 8446 x.125
e marmstrong@noesis.com
8303 No. Mopac
Ste B 230
Austin, TX 78759

www.noesis.com