PROPOSAL

Demolish a c. 1917 contributing house and garage.

RESEARCH

The existing house was constructed c. 1917. The first residents were the tenants Walter F. Tetts, a watch-maker, and his wife Catherine, who only lived in the house for a short time. Actually, the occupancy history of the house indicates a number of short term tenants and owner occupants up until the mid-1930's when Samuel J. and Alma (a.k.a Mary A.) Cox purchased the house after being tenants for a few years. Mr. Cox was a night watchman at a wholesale grocery, likely retired in the early 1940's, and then passed away in 1950. After which Mrs. Cox remained living at the home until her death in 1962. After this period the house was remodeled into a duplex.

PROJECT SPECIFICATIONS

The existing c. 1917 house is an approximately 1,400 sq. ft., one-story Neoclassical cottage with a hipped roof that has deep, open eaves with exposed rafter ends. The partial-width, inset front porch projects from the main house and has a separate hipped roof supported by round, unfluted classical columns set on a low wall. The flared foundation is clad with wide, horizontal siding and the walls of the house are clad with what appears to be asbestos cement shingles. There double-hung 1:1 windows.

There is a detached garage/shed accessed from Pressler Street at the rear that was likely built between 1935 and 1961 according to Sanborn maps. It has a gable roof, vertical wood siding and double doors at the rear.

The applicant proposes to demolish both the house and garage to allow for redevelopment of the parcel.

STANDARDS FOR REVIEW

The existing property is contributing to the West Line National Register Historic District. Applicable general design review guidelines state:

- The distinguishing original qualities or character of a property and its environment shall not be destroyed. Removal or alteration of any historic material or distinctive architectural features should be avoided.
- All properties shall be recognized as products of their own time. Alterations which have no historical basis and which seek to create an earlier appearance shall be discouraged.
- Changes which have taken place in the course of time may have acquired significance in their own right, and shall be recognized and respected.
- Distinctive stylistic features or examples of skilled craftsmanship which characterize a property shall be treated with sensitivity.

- Deteriorated architectural features shall be repaired rather than replaced whenever possible. In the event replacement is necessary, the new material should match the material being replaced in composition, design, color, texture, and other visual qualities. Repair or replacement of missing architectural features should be based on accurate duplications of features, substantiated by historical, physical, or pictorial evidence.
- Contemporary design for alterations and additions to existing properties are appropriate when such alterations and additions do not destroy significant historic, architectural, or cultural material and are compatible with the size, scale, color, material, and character of the property, neighborhood, or environment.
- Whenever, possible, new additions or alterations to structures shall be done in such a manner that if such additions or alterations were to be removed in the future, the essential form and integrity of the structure would not be impaired.
- The installation of protective or code-required mechanical systems shall be concealed whenever possible so as not to intrude upon or detract from the property's aesthetic and historical qualities except where concealment would result in the alteration or destruction of historically significant materials or spaces.

The house is good examples of a simple Neoclassical Cottage and retains a good level of historic architectural integrity. Therefore, demolition does not meet the guidelines. Additionally, with nearly all the houses that were present by 1935 still standing and retaining their historic appearance, this block of the West Line National Register District retains a very high level of integrity and would be eligible for Local Historic District zoning. Loss of this house, and the one at 507 Oakland, being located in the middle of the block, would adversely impact this area of the District.

COMMITTEE RECOMMENDATION

Continue to consider options that allow for adaptive reuse of the existing buildings. If new construction is pursued design a building, or buildings, that are compatible with the scale, patterns and character of the district.

STAFF RECOMMENDATION

Release the permit with the recommendation that the applicant consider a design that allows for the adaptive reuse of the existing house. Require review of new construction plans, as well as submittal of a City of Austin documentation package, prior to release of the demolition permit.
