PROPOSAL

Demolish a ca. 1937 house and a ca. 1940 rear house.

ARCHITECTURE

The front ca. 1937 house is a one-story, L-plan frame house with vertical siding and single 6:6 fenestration. The rear ca. 1940 house was an addition to the original garage and is a one-story, rectangular-plan, front-gabled stuccoed frame building with 1:1 fenestration.

RESEARCH

The houses were built by Mrs. Abbie Allen, the widow of Moses J. Allen, who is listed in early city directories as Rev. Moses Allen. Moses and Abbie Allen lived in various rental houses in South Austin, for a long while on Nickerson Street. Moses Allen died in 1934, and by 1940, Abbie Allen was living as a lodger in the home of Mrs. M.J. Thornberry on W. Johanna Street (M.J.'s son was Homer Thornberry, who later rose to prominence in the legal profession). While still living on W. Johanna Street, Abbie Allen built the front house on this property in 1937 as a rental property. She then built the second house as an addition to the existing garage around 1940, and moved into the rear house around 1946. She lived here until her death in 1955. Since that time, the houses have been rented out to a variety of tenants.

STAFF COMMENTS

Neither house appears in any City survey.

STAFF RECOMMENDATION

Neither house warrants individual landmark designation due to a lack of architectural or historical significance; while staff is sympathetic to the creation of a locally-designated historic district in this neighborhood, and the front house would probably be contributing to that proposed district, this case needs to be decided more immediately than in the time necessary to nominate a historic district. Staff recommends release of the permit, upon completion of a City of Austin Documentation Package, consisting of photographs of all elevations, a dimensioned sketch plan, and a narrative history, for archiving at the Austin History Center.
