Additional Backup Information

The City recently acquired property along Slaughter Creek that includes a historic house, stables, and a spring fed pond. This property was once a stopping point for the Pony Express along the El Camino Real Trail. The South Park Meadows Greenbelt connects this property to Mary Moore Seawright Park and existing equestrian trails.

PARD is proposing the extension of the only authorized equestrian trail system on parkland in the City of Austin to a new park property that will act as a trailhead, stables and reservable facility for equestrian and other activities. The project would include signage, stopping points, and gathering areas for the trail system. This trail extension will also be a future connection to the planned Onion Creek regional trail system. The total project cost could be up to $250,000. PARD will provide up to a $50,000 match with Parkland Dedication funds.
