DEMOLITION AND RELOCATION PERMITS

PROPOSAL

Demolish a ca. 1933 house.

ARCHITECTURE

One-story, rectangular-plan, side-gabled frame cottage with a partial-width, front-gabled, independent porch on ornamental metal posts; single and paired 1:1 fenestration with 6:1 screens.

RESEARCH

The house was built in 1933 by Paul Kirschner, a local developer. The first owners and occupants of the house were Alvah and Golda Zinser, who lived here until around 1936. Alvah Zinser was a native of Arkansas, who had previously lived in Denver, Colorado where he was in the house decorating business with his father; he then moved to St. Louis, Missouri, where he was an industrial chemist. When he and his wife, Golda, moved to Austin, he was working as a chemist for the State Highway Department. From the late 1930s to the mid-1940s, the house was a rental unit, with tenants including an agent for the Magnolia Petroleum Company, the proprietor of a plumbing contracting business, and a supervisor for the State Board for Vocational Education. The house was purchased around 1946 by Neal and Anna Randolph while Neal was a student at the University of Texas. They lived here until around 1948, when the house was purchased by Theophilus and Leon Bounds, who lived here the rest of their lives. Theophilus Bounds was a painter, who later worked as a clerk at the Stephen F. Austin Hotel. His wife, Leon, was a telephone operator and supervisor for the telephone company, and later worked as a telephone operator at the University of Texas. She passed away in 1990.

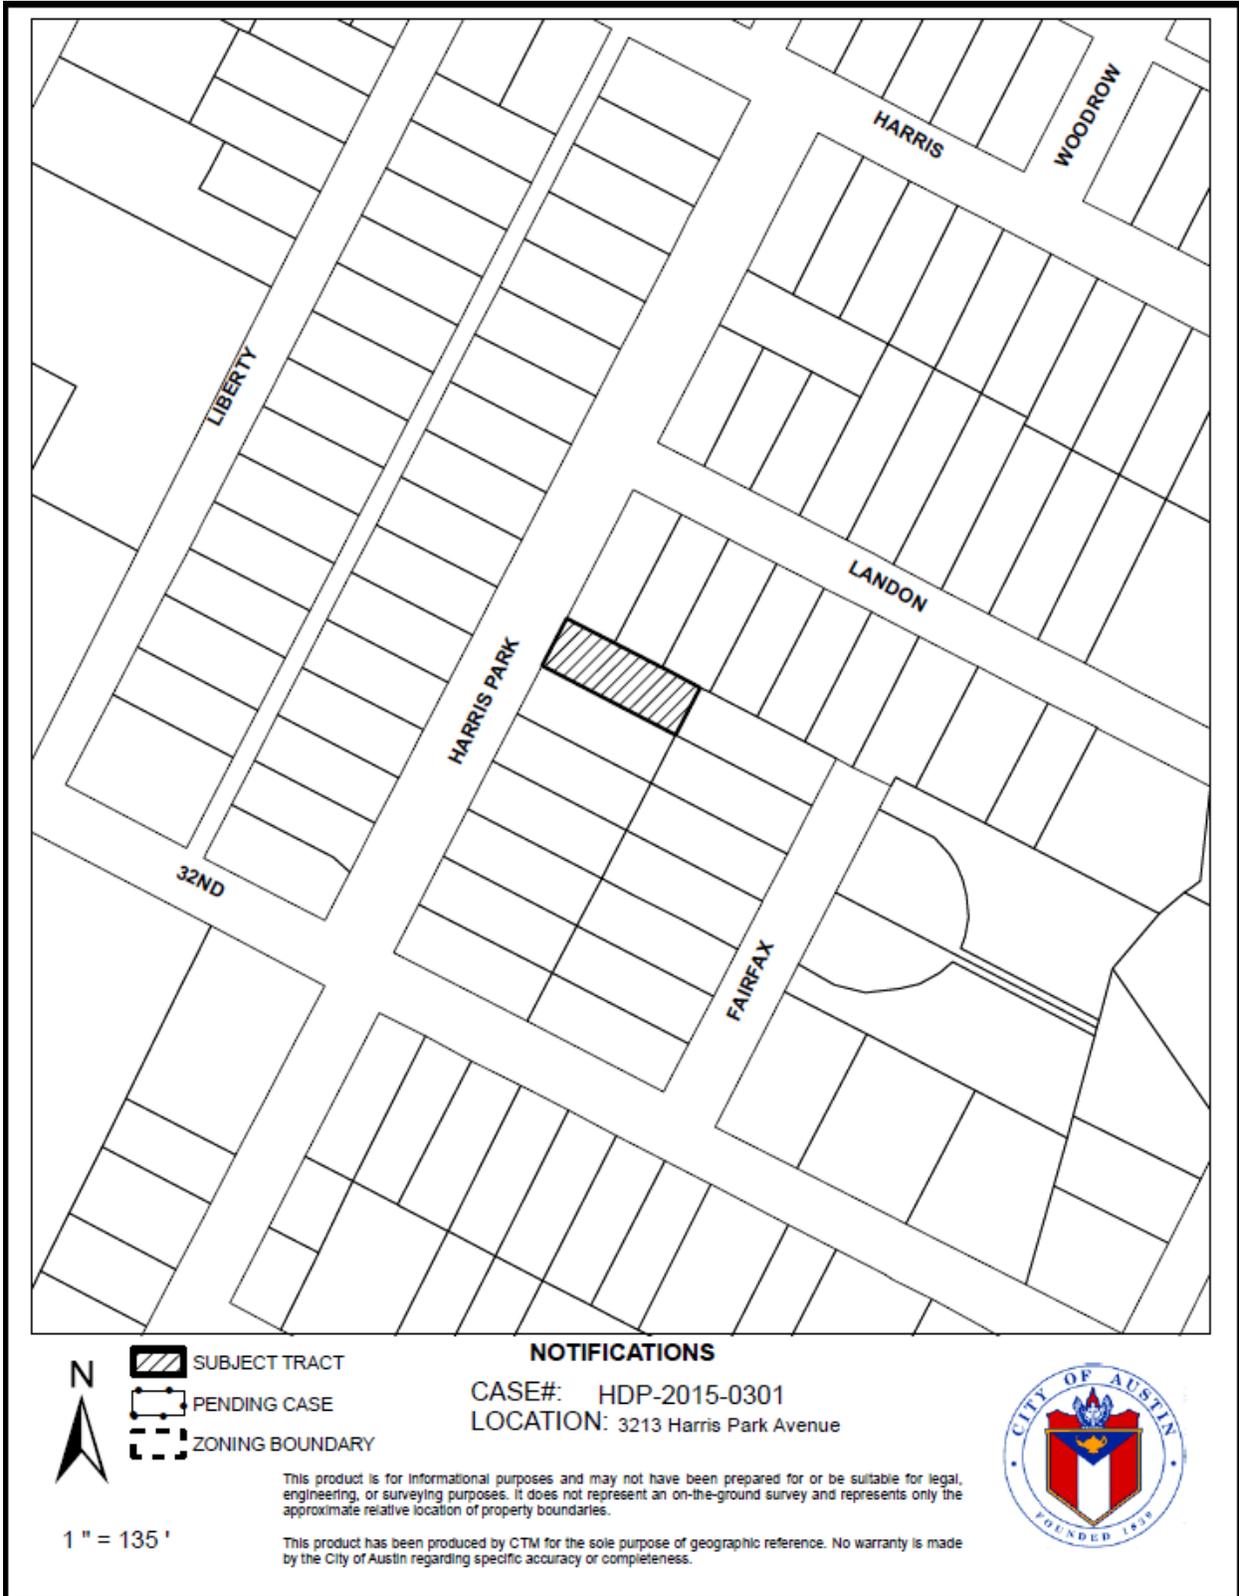

STAFF COMMENTS

The house appears in the Comprehensive Cultural Resources Survey (1984) but without a priority for research.

STAFF RECOMMENDATION

Encourage rehabilitation and re-use if feasible, otherwise, release the permit upon completion of a City of Austin Documentation Package consisting of photographs of all elevations, a dimensioned sketch plan, and a narrative history, for archiving at the Austin History Center. While the house does not meet the criteria for designation as a historic landmark, it is an integral part of the architectural fabric of this neighborhood, and every consideration should be given towards preservation and re-use.
