DEMOLITION AND RELOCATION PERMITS
HDP-2015-0401
1904 E. 17TH STREET

PROPOSAL

Demolish a ca. 1920 house.

ARCHITECTURE

One-story, rectangular-plan, pyramidal-roofed frame house with a partial-width inset porch; single 1:1 fenestration.

RESEARCH

The house was built around 1920; the first renters were Robert S. and Eula Whitley, who were white. They were originally from New Braunfels, and after living in this house for a few years, they moved back there. Whitley and several of his family members worked in cotton mills. After 1923, the house was occupied by a succession of African-American families, including a porter, the personal chauffeur for Andrew J. Zilker, who later went to work as a truck driver for a furniture company, and a laundress. Around 1942, the house was purchased by Ella Robinson, who, with her daughter, Edna, had rented the house in the late 1930s and early 1940s. Ella Robinson was a laundress. They lived here until around 1948. From then on, the house was occupied by a series of renters, including another laundress, a construction worker at the University of Texas, a highway laborer, and a yardman.

STAFF COMMENTS

The house is listed in the Chestnut Neighborhood Historic Resources Survey (2001) with a medium priority for preservation.

STAFF RECOMMENDATION

Release the permit upon completion of a City of Austin Documentation Package, consisting of photographs of all elevations, a dimensioned sketch plan, and a narrative history, for archiving at the Austin History Center. While the house would definitely be contributing to a potential historic district in this neighborhood, it does not rise to the level of an individual landmark. That being said, staff strongly encourages the applicant to reconsider the plan to demolish this house and build a new house on the site. This block of E. 17th Street is a prime candidate for a historic district, and the one house that has already been demolished has been replaced with a large house that is completely out of scale with the remaining historic houses on the block and in the immediate environs.
