Date of Decision Being Appealed:

January 13, 2015

Date Appeal is Filed:

20 January 2015

Decision being appealed: (use additional paper as required) Appeal to COA, Building&Fire Code/Planning&Development Review Board.

City of Austin (COA) approved a residential building permit for the property at 3100 Highland Terrace W, Austin, Texas, 78731, despite the fact that the property owner built a foundation & structure without initially filing for the the required COA permits. Furthermore, the property owner has operated this property as an unlicensed "Short-Term Rental" & "Rooming House," as defined by the Land Development Code (LDC). Therefore, this permit should have been reviewed under the Commercial Code & given thorough examination of the intended purpose & use of the property as a "Rooming House" &/or "Short-Term Rental" operated in a residential neighborhood within walking proximity of an elementary school. In addition, there are deficiencies in the submitted building permit application, which clearly contains omissions, relevant to the permit application, which potentially affects impervious cover as well public utility easement provisions. It is important to note that Highland Park West (HPW) Plat Restrictions were signed by COA-Planning Comm'n & which restrict the size, height & materials of detached garage.

Reason the appellant believes the decision does not comply with the requirements of the Land Development Code (Title 25)

According to the Land Development Code § 25-12-211, a "Rooming House" is defined as "A building, other than a hotel, where lodging for more than six unrelated persons is provided without meals in return for compensation." The property owner has operated this property as an unlicensed & impermissible "Rooming House" & "Short-Term Rental" over several years, resulting in excessive traffic, parking & garbage at the property. In light of the "commercial use" of the property, this permit should have been reviewed under Commercial Code & given thorough examination of the intended purpose & use of property. Furthermore, there are deficiencies in the submitted building permit application that contains omissions relevant to the permit application. Additionally, the metal shed structure violates various provisions of HPW-Subdivision Plat Restrictions, signed by City of Austin Planning Comm'n, which restrict the size, height, location & materials used for construction of the detached garage.
