

Dear Mayor Adler, Mayor Pro Tem Tovo and Members of Council:

I am writing on behalf of the Greater Austin Hispanic Chamber of Commerce in support of the proposed Fair Chance Hiring ordinance being considered by the Austin City Council on March 24, 2016.

Job applicants with records often face additional barriers in finding employment. There are an estimated 70 million people in the United States—nearly one in three adults—who have arrest or conviction records. Research shows that when job seekers who are qualified for employment struggle to find a job and maximize their potential, families struggle, and our economy as a whole is weakened.

In response, many cities, counties, and states have adopted fair chance hiring policies so that employers consider a job candidate's qualifications first, without the stigma of a conviction record. These initiatives provide applicants a better chance at employment by removing the conviction history question on the job application and delaying the background check inquiry until later in the hiring.

Furthermore, several cities and seven states—Hawaii, Illinois, Massachusetts, Minnesota, New Jersey, Oregon and Rhode Island—have passed fair chance hiring policies for private employers. The U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) endorsed removing the conviction question from job applications as a best practice in its 2012 guidance, and President Obama recently directed all federal agencies to adopt fair chance hiring rules.

Because our criminal justice system disparately impacts communities of color, fair chance policies have an especially positive impact on African-American and Latino job seekers. The Fair Chance Hiring ordinance being considered by Council will expand our ability to increase economic opportunities for all Austinites.

Thank you for considering this critical policy.

Sincerely,

Mark Madrid,
President and CEO
Greater Austin Hispanic Chamber of Commerce

Executive Committee

Mario Flores
Chair
Law Office of Mario Flores, PLLC

Val Velasquez
Immediate Past Chair
Casa Blanca Realty

Mark Masten
Treasurer
Wells Fargo

Michelle Alcalá
Secretary
Graves Dougherty Hearon & Moody

Gerardo Castillo
At-Large
Capital Metro

Mark L. Madrid
President and CEO

Board of Directors

Ray Andow
Walmart

Guadalupe (Lupe) Barragan
Casa Chapala Mexican Restaurant

Rodney Bustamante
Austin Absolute Realty

Vanessa Fuentes
American Heart Association –
SouthWest Affiliate

Vanessa A. Gonzalez
Bickerstaff Heath Delgado Acosta LLP

Danny Lowry
Univision Communications

Carmen Luevanos
Texas Gas Service

Irma Martinez
Your Private Money Solutions, LLC

Marla Martinez
At-Large
University of Texas at Austin

Novert A. Morales
Morales Law Office

Joe R. Pelayo
Applied Materials, Inc.

Roy Reyes
Austin Subaru

Christopher Rios
Texas Capital Bank

Alex Valdes
Winstead PC

Christann M. Vasquez
Seton Healthcare Family

José A. Velásquez
Easter Seals of Central Texas

October 12, 2015

Dear Mayor Adler, Mayor Pro Tem Tovo, and Council Members,

I am writing this letter in support of the proposed Fair Chance ordinance being considered by you and your colleagues.

Job applicants with records often face additional barriers in finding employment. There are an estimated 70 million people in the United States—nearly one in three adults—who have arrest or conviction records. Research shows that when job seekers who are qualified for employment struggle to find a job and maximize their potential, families struggle, and our economy as a whole is weakened.

In response, many cities, counties, and states have adopted what are widely known as “ban the box” policies so that employers consider a job candidate’s qualifications first, without the stigma of a conviction record. These initiatives provide applicants a better chance at employment by removing the conviction history question on the job application and delaying the background check inquiry until later in the hiring.

Furthermore, several cities and seven states—Hawaii, Illinois, Massachusetts, Minnesota, New Jersey, Oregon and Rhode Island—have removed the conviction history question on job applications for private employers, greatly expanding the number of individuals benefiting from the policy. Federally, the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) endorsed removing the conviction question from job applications as a best practice in its 2012 guidance. Because our criminal justice system disparately impacts communities of color, Ban the Box (or Fair Chance) policies have an especially positive impact on African-American and Latino job seekers. A fair chance ordinance for this City will expand our ability to increase economic opportunities for all Austinites.

Thank you for passing this critical policy.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in dark ink, reading "Natalie Madeira Cofield".

Natalie Madeira Cofield
President & CEO
Greater Austin Black Chamber of Commerce

AUSTIN GAY & LESBIAN
CHAMBER OF COMMERCE
www.aglcc.org

2015 Board of Directors

Edgar Gierbolini, Chair
Amy Cook, Vice Chair
Rich Segal, Secretary
Rick Holmberg, Treasurer

Jeff Arnold
John Egan
Chase Kincannon
Lindsey Leaverton
Shannon Mantrom
LeeAnn Wick
Aaron Yeats

Project Manager

Ceci Gratias

Mission: To empower and strengthen the LGBT business community and its allies.

A 501(c)(6) non-profit organization.

AGLCC
PO Box 49216
Austin, Texas 78765
(512) 761-LGBT (5428)
info@aglcc.org

October 12, 2015

Austin City Council
Austin City Hall
301 W. 2nd Street
Austin, Texas 78701

Dear Mayor Adler, Mayor Pro Tem Tovo, and Council Members,

I am writing this letter on behalf of the Austin Gay and Lesbian Chamber of Commerce in support of the proposed Fair Chance ordinance being considered by you and your colleagues.

Job applicants with records often face additional barriers in finding employment. There are an estimated 70 million people in the United States—nearly one in three adults—who have arrest or conviction records. Research shows that when job seekers who are qualified for employment struggle to find a job and maximize their potential, families struggle, and our economy as a whole is weakened.

In response, many cities, counties, and states have adopted what are widely known as “ban the box” policies so that employers consider a job candidate’s qualifications first, without the stigma of a conviction record. These initiatives provide applicants a better chance at employment by removing the conviction history question on the job application and delaying the background check inquiry until later in the hiring.

Furthermore, several cities and seven states—Hawaii, Illinois, Massachusetts, Minnesota, New Jersey, Oregon and Rhode Island—have removed the conviction history question on job applications for private employers, greatly expanding the number of individuals benefiting from the policy. Federally, the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) endorsed removing the conviction question from job applications as a best practice in its 2012 guidance. Because our criminal justice system disparately impacts communities of color, Ban the Box (or Fair Chance) policies have an especially positive impact on African-American and Latino job seekers. A fair chance ordinance for this City will expand our ability to increase economic opportunities for all Austinites.

Thank you for passing this critical policy.

Edgar Gierbolini
AGLCC Chairperson

Austin Area Urban League

*Empowering Communities.
Changing Lives.*

8011-A Cameron Rd.
Suite 100
Austin, TX 78754-3811
512-478-7176-T
512-478-1239-F
www.aaul.org info@aaul.org

October 9, 2015

Dear Mayor Adler, Mayor Pro Tem Tovo, and Council Members,

I am writing this letter in support of the proposed Fair Chance ordinance being considered by you and your colleagues.

Job applicants with records often face additional barriers in finding employment. There are an estimated 70 million people in the United States—nearly one in three adults—who have arrest or conviction records. Research shows that when job seekers who are qualified for employment struggle to find a job and maximize their potential, families struggle, and our economy as a whole is weakened.

In response, many cities, counties, and states have adopted what are widely known as “ban the box” policies so that employers consider a job candidate’s qualifications first, without the stigma of a conviction record. These initiatives provide applicants a better chance at employment by removing the conviction history question on the job application and delaying the background check inquiry until later in the hiring.

Furthermore, several cities and seven states—Hawaii, Illinois, Massachusetts, Minnesota, New Jersey, Oregon and Rhode Island—have removed the conviction history question on job applications for private employers, greatly expanding the number of individuals benefiting from the policy. Federally, the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) endorsed removing the conviction question from job applications as a best practice in its 2012 guidance. Because our criminal justice system disparately impacts communities of color, Ban the Box (or Fair Chance) policies have an especially positive impact on African-American and Latino job seekers. A fair chance ordinance for this City will expand our ability to increase economic opportunities for all Austin-ites.

Thank you for passing this critical policy.

Sincerely,

W. Teddy McDaniel, III.
President & CEO
Austin Area Urban League

The Next Generation of Austin Leaders

Dear Mayor Adler, Mayor Pro Tem Tovo, and Council Members,

I am writing this personal letter in support of the proposed Fair Chance ordinance being considered by you and your colleagues.

Job applicants with records often face additional barriers in finding employment. There are an estimated 70 million people in the United States—nearly one in three adults—who have arrest or conviction records. Research shows that when job seekers who are qualified for employment struggle to find a job and maximize their potential, families struggle, and our economy as a whole is weakened.

In response, many cities, counties, and states have adopted what are widely known as “ban the box” policies so that employers consider a job candidate’s qualifications first, without the stigma of a conviction record. These initiatives provide applicants a better chance at employment by removing the conviction history question on the job application and delaying the background check inquiry until later in the hiring.

Furthermore, several cities and seven states—Hawaii, Illinois, Massachusetts, Minnesota, New Jersey, Oregon and Rhode Island—have removed the conviction history question on job applications for private employers, greatly expanding the number of individuals benefiting from the policy. Federally, the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) endorsed removing the conviction question from job applications as a best practice in its 2012 guidance. Because our criminal justice system disparately impacts communities of color, Ban the Box (or Fair Chance) policies have an especially positive impact on African-American and Latino job seekers. A fair chance ordinance for this City will expand our ability to increase economic opportunities for all Austinites.

I believe this common sense proposal is a step in the right direction to increasing affordability in our city and growing our middle class. Two critical issues we need to address now to prepare for future generations.

Thank you for passing this critical policy,

Matt Glazer
Executive Director
Austin Young Chamber of Commerce

TEXAS AFL-CIO

P.O. BOX 12727

AUSTIN, TEXAS 78711

OFFICE: 512/477-6195

FAX: 512/477-2962

JOHN PATRICK
President

RICHARD LEVY
Secretary-Treasurer

March 21, 2016

Austin City Council
Austin City Hall
310 W. 2nd Street
Austin, Texas 78701

Mayor Adler, Mayor Pro Tem Tovo and Council Members:

The Texas AFL-CIO and the Austin Area Central Labor Council support the proposed Fair Chance ordinance being considered by this Council. We need an enforceable ordinance that will advance hiring practices and will prohibit employers doing business in Austin from discriminating against applicants because of their past conviction history.

Current hiring practices allow for employers to exclude candidates from the selection process due to their answers in the "criminal history" box. This creates a serious barrier to employment for millions of workers, especially young men of color and others in communities of color hardest hit by decades of over-criminalization. Research has shown that a criminal record reduces the likelihood of a job callback or offer by nearly 50%. Without any opportunity, recidivism rates will continue to increase.

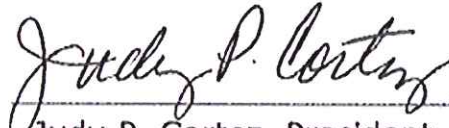

Many working people across the nation are living in the intersection of economic inequality and racial injustice, and these are too often then communities affected by mass incarceration. Whether the families themselves or their neighbors have been through the criminal justice system, they have witnessed how arrests and unemployment harm their community.

Elected officials from across the political spectrum have embraced fair chance hiring practices. This has brought opportunity to qualified job-seekers with a conviction history who otherwise struggle against significant odds to find work. Eight states have extended their policies to both public and private sector employers and a growing number of the nation's largest employers, including, Walmart and Target have adopted Fair Chance hiring measures.

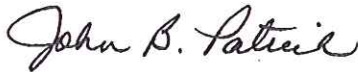

Now is the time to take action to open employment opportunities for Austinites who have been unfairly locked out of the job market because of a record. We urge you to pass a comprehensive Fair Chance policy for private employers and help make Austin's opportunities accessible to all.

In solidarity,

A handwritten signature in cursive script, reading "Judy P. Cortez".

Judy P. Cortez, President
Austin Area Central Labor Council of the Texas AFL-CIO

A handwritten signature in cursive script, reading "John B. Patrick".

John B. Patrick, President
Texas AFL-CIO

A handwritten signature in cursive script, reading "Rick Levy".

Rick Levy, Secretary-Treasurer
Texas AFL-CIO

October 6, 2015

Mayor, Mayor Pro Tem, and City Council

RE: Fair Chance

Job applicants with records often face barriers in finding employment. There are an estimated 70 million people in the United States—nearly one in three adults—who have arrest or conviction records. One of the most critical components addressing recidivism and allowing people to reenter the community and stay out of prison is employment. When members of our community who are qualified for employment struggle to find a job and maximize their potential, families struggle, and our economy as a whole is weakened.

In response, many cities, counties, and states have adopted what are widely known as “ban the box” or “Fair Chance” policies so that employers consider a job candidate’s qualifications first, without the stigma of a conviction record. These initiatives provide applicants a better chance by removing the conviction history question on the job application and delaying the background check inquiry until later in the hiring.

Furthermore, several cities and seven states—Hawaii, Illinois, Massachusetts, Minnesota, New Jersey, Oregon and Rhode Island—have removed the conviction history question on job applications for private employers, greatly expanding the number of individuals benefiting from the policy. Federally, the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) endorsed removing the conviction question from job applications as a best practice in its 2012 guidance. Because our criminal justice system disparately impacts communities of color, Fair Chance policies have an especially positive impact on African-American and Latino job seekers.

The policy before the Austin City Council would require that employers refrain from asking about conviction history until the later stages of the job application process. This would apply to most or all private employers in Austin. Employers would still be allowed to run a criminal background check and use professional discretion towards relevant convictions under the policy. No state or federal rules would be superseded by the policy.

We support Austin being a pioneer in Texas by passing a comprehensive Fair Chance policy for private employers.

Thanks so much for your support on this important issue.

Steven Bercu,
CEO, BookPeople

Dove Springs Proud

October 20, 2015

To Mayor, Councilmembers Garza and the members of the Economic Development Committee:

Dove Springs Proud (DSP) is pleased to submit this letter of support to you in regards to moving forward in drafting a city ordinance for Fair Chance Hiring. We are specific in we support the idea of eliminating the question whether you have been convicted of a crime from the job application. We support everyone being able to apply, qualified applicants being allowed an interview and being given a conditional job offer before the hiring entity can perform a background check. At this time, if the individual does have a criminal record, then the entity may decide to deny the offer. We do not support any individual who has been convicted of child abuse or assault being hired to work with any agency dealing with youth. As the draft ordinance is being written, we request to be sent the draft for our further review prior to the next vote. We believe all individuals who have been convicted of a crime, once they have completed their restitution to society through probation or time served, should be allowed to obtain a job to promote their re-entry. We also believe this will reduce recidivism as a key component of refraining from crime is obtaining a quality work placement. Many of our youth and residents make bad choices which we do not want to hinder them from providing for themselves or their family and returning to being a positive part of our community.

DSP is a recognized City of Austin Civic group #1441 with the sole mission to support the youth and residents of 78744. Our membership is comprised of 343 members of the 78744 area who include the Dove Springs Recreation Advisory Board President and members, non-profit Executive Directors, AISD Campus Advisory Council members, AISD UpClose graduates, City of Austin Community Development Commissioners, AISD Community Bond Oversight Committee members, AISD PTA Presidents, Pastors, residents, public officials and individuals who grew up or serve the Dove Springs neighborhood. Should you have any questions pertaining to this letter, please feel free to contact us at dovespringsproud@yahoo.com.

Sincerely,

Dove Springs Proud (DSP)

PLANNING COUNCIL

Sarah Pahl Worthington, MSSW, JD
Texas Criminal Justice Coalition
Planning Council Chair

Helen Gaebler, JD
UT School of Law
Planning Council Vice-Chair

Laura Sovine, LMSW-AP
Travis Co. Health & Human/Veterans Services
Planning Council Past Chair

Darwin Hamilton
Community Representative
Executive Committee At-Large Representative

Sherry Blyth
Austin Travis County Integral Care

Sandra Eames, Ed.D.
Austin Community College

Darla Gay
Travis Co. District Attorney's Office

Nancy Hohengarten
County Court at Law Judge

Lisa Howard
Texas Department of Criminal Justice

Roger Jefferies
Travis Co. Justice Planning

Lauren Johnson
Community Representative

Chris Lefevre
LifeWorks Austin

Melissa Orren
Austin Tenant's Council

Antonio Jorge Renaud
Center for Community Change

Charles Robinson
Travis Co. Adult Probation

Jaime Rodriguez
U.S. Bureau of Prisons

Danny Smith
Travis County Sheriff's Office

Mia Sneed
Texas Health & Human Services Commission

DeWayne Street
Goodwill Industries of Central Texas

Louella Tate, Ph.D.
Community Representative

Kenneth Thompson
Texas Department of Family & Protective Services
Nominating Committee Chair

Pete Valdez
City of Austin Community Court

Bree Williams
Ending Community Homelessness Coalition (ECHO)

Advisory Members

Victoria Terranova
Geraldine Nagy
Marvin Dunbar
Daryl Beatty
Cliff Brown

Austin/Travis County Reentry Roundtable

Building Successful Strategies for Offender Reentry and Reintegration in Austin/Travis County, Texas

October 2, 2015

Economic Opportunity Committee, Austin City Council
The Honorable Ellen Troxclair, Chair
The Honorable Ora Houston, Vice-Chair
The Honorable Gregorio Casar
The Honorable Leslie Pool
301 W. Second Street
Austin, Texas 78701

Re: Fair Chance Hiring in Austin

Dear Chair Troxclair, Vice-Chair Houston, Council Member Casar, and Council Member Pool,

On behalf of the Planning Council of the Austin/Travis County Reentry Roundtable (A/TCRRT), I would like to thank you for addressing the issue of employment barriers for individuals involved in the criminal justice system.

The A/TCRRT is a robust collaborative of private and public sector individuals and organizations seeking to promote public safety through effective reentry and reintegration of formerly incarcerated persons and individuals with criminal histories. We receive funding from both Travis County and the City of Austin because we share the goal of maintaining safe and healthy communities through removing the systemic barriers facing those with a criminal record.

Representatives from the A/TCRRT, including myself, were pleased to participate in the stakeholder process facilitated by the Human Resources Department and to submit what we believe are the critical elements of an effective Fair Chance Hiring policy. However, we do not believe those critical elements were effectively communicated to the Economic Opportunity Committee.

The Economic Opportunity Committee heard testimony on both September 14th and October 12th in support of a Fair Chance Hiring policy that should include not only removing the criminal history question from employment applications, but also waiting until a conditional offer of employment is made to ask about criminal history or run a background check, and adhering to EEOC guidelines that require an individualized assessment of applicants and the opportunity to provide mitigating evidence.

The A/TCRRT supports the suggested policies included in the enclosed document explaining why Austin needs a comprehensive Fair Chance Hiring policy now. Please review these recommendations carefully and consider them as you move forward with an ordinance that will allow individuals with a criminal record to overcome employment barriers and be contributing citizens of a vibrant and progressive Austin.

I am available for any questions or concerns you may wish to discuss.

Respectfully,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read 'Sarah D. Pahl Worthington', with a stylized, flowing script.

Sarah D. Pahl Worthington, Chair

Email: sdpworthington@gmail.com

Cell: (817) 229-7868

cc: Mayor Steve Adler, Council Member Delia Garza, Council Member Sabino Renteria, Council Member Ann Kitchen, Council Member Don Zimmerman, Council Member Kathie Tovo, Council Member Sheri Gallo

"Everyone deserves a safe place to call Home."

Dear Mayor Adler, Mayor Pro Tem Tovo, and Council Members,

I am writing this letter in support of the proposed Fair Chance ordinance being considered by you and your colleagues.

Job applicants with criminal justice histories often face additional barriers in finding employment. There are an estimated 70 million people in the United States—nearly one in three adults—who have arrest or conviction records. Research shows that when job seekers who are qualified for employment struggle to find a job and maximize their potential, families struggle, and our economy as a whole is weakened.

In response, many cities, counties, and states have adopted what are widely known as "ban the box" policies so that employers consider a job candidate's qualifications first, without the stigma of a conviction record. These initiatives provide applicants a better chance at employment by removing the conviction history question on the job application and delaying the background check inquiry until later in the hiring.

Furthermore, several cities and seven states—Hawaii, Illinois, Massachusetts, Minnesota, New Jersey, Oregon and Rhode Island—have removed the conviction history question on job applications for private employers, greatly expanding the number of individuals benefiting from the policy. Federally, the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) endorsed removing the conviction question from job applications as a best practice in its 2012 guidance.

Many of our neighbors who are struggling with housing stability and homelessness are also struggling with income security. Ban the Box (or Fair Chance) policies stand to have an especially positive impact on our community's ability to end homelessness, build a livable wage job market, address poverty and build a healthier, stronger Austin. A fair chance ordinance for this City will expand our ability to increase economic opportunities for all Austinites.

Thank you for considering this critical policy.

Sincerely,

Mitchell Gibbs,
Executive Director
Front Steps, Inc.
512-305-4156

Easter Seals Central Texas
8505 Cross Park Drive, Ste. 120
Austin, Texas 78754
(512) 478-2581
(512) 476-1638 fax
www.centraltx.easterseals.com

Dear Council Member Troxclair, Council Member Houston, Council Member Casar and Council Member Pool,

I am writing this letter in support of the proposed Fair Chance Hiring ordinance being considered by the Austin City Council Economic Opportunity Committee. This policy is an excellent way to improve employment outcomes for people with disabilities without placing an undue burden on employers.

At Easter Seals Central Texas, we serve adults and children with disabilities in the Austin area through a variety of services, including direct employment and employment supports. It is a well-known fact that employment rates for people with disabilities are much lower than the general population. According to the Office of Disability Employment Policy (ODEP), 68.2% of the general US population was employed as of September 2015, compared to only 19.1% of people with disabilities. Fair Chance Hiring policies have a positive impact on people with disabilities, especially those experiencing mental illness who often cycle through the criminal justice system for minor infractions related to their disability.

A Fair Chance Hiring policy is a step in the right direction to help more people in Austin find jobs, and reduce the stigma around employing people with disabilities who may have criminal backgrounds. We encourage you to support any effort to improve employment outcomes for people with disabilities, and thank you for your consideration of this very important policy. Please feel free to reach out to me with any questions you may have.

Best regards,

Tod Marvin
President & CEO
Easter Seals Central Texas

November 6, 2015

Greg Casar
Council Member, District 4
City of Austin
P.O. Box 1088
Austin, TX 78767

Dear Council Member:

On behalf of the members of AFSCME Local 1624, I commend you for sponsoring the Fair Chance Hiring Ordinance. As a small business and advocate for employees, we believe this a crucial step to reducing economic inequality and employment discrimination in the city of Austin.

Currently, few employment opportunities exist for job applicants with a criminal record who are trying to improve their lives. When applicants are immediately disqualified without consideration of their experience, skills and potential, nobody benefits. Delaying background checks until later in the hiring process will give job seekers an equal opportunity for initial consideration, while preserving an employer's right to collect background information on an applicant that is relevant to the job.

AFSCME Local 1624 supports the Fair Chance Hiring Ordinance and shares your commitment to eliminating employment discrimination and income inequality in the city of Austin.

Please do not hesitate to contact me for additional information or assistance.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in cursive script, appearing to read "Carol Guthrie".

Carol Guthrie