A VECTOR INTERVIEWRecommendation of subset in the product of the pr	A U	S T I N C	CE	and the second	UNO	C I L
Austin City Council Item ID 61166 Agenda Number 30. Meeting Date: 8/18/2016 Department: Economic Development Authorize negotiation and execution of an interlocal agreement with The University of Texas for data collection and analysis in support of programs measuring the effects of youth focused programs in science, technology, engineering, math, creative, focusing or the growth of a pipeline of quality jobs for youth in poverty in a contract amount not to exceed $100,000 Authorize negotiation and execution of $100,000 is available in the Fiscal Year 2015-2016 Economic Development Department Budget. Funding in the amount of $100,000 is available in the Fiscal Year 2015-2016 Economic Development Department Budget. Fiscal Note Furchasing Language: Purchasing Language: Prior Council Action: Kevin Johns, Director, 512-974-7802; David Colligan, Global Business Recruitment and Expansion Manager, 512-974-6381 Council Committee, Boards and Commission Action: MBE / WBE: Related Items: Additional Backup Information Kevin Johns, Director, 512-974-6381 Council Committee, Boards and Commission Action: MBE / WBE: Related Items: Additional Backup Information Kevin Johns, Director, 512-974-6381 Council Development Department wi	A G E N D A
Austin City Council Item ID 61166 Agenda Number 30. Meeting Date: 8/18/2016 Department: Economic Development Authorize negotiation and execution of an interlocal agreement with The University of Texas for data collection and analysis in support of programs measuring the effects of youth focused programs in science, technology, engineering, math, creative, focusing on the growth of a pipeline of quality jobs for youth in poverty in a contract amount not to exceed $100,000 is available in the Fiscal Year 2015-2016 Economic Development Department Budget. Funding in the amount of $100,000 is available in the Fiscal Year 2015-2016 Economic Development Department Budget. Fiscal Note Purchasing Language: Purchasing Language: Purchasing Language: Prior Council Action: Kevin Johns, Director, 512-974-7802; David Colligan, Global Business Recruitment and Expansion Manager, 512-974-6381 Council Committee, Boards and Committee, Boards and Committee, Boards and Commission Action: Additional Backup Information MBE / WBE: Item tull contract with the University of Texas Ray Marshall Center for research and for data collection and analysis in support of programs measuring the effects of youth focused programs in science, technology, engineering math, creative (STEM-CE) and entrepreneurial studies. The Economic Development Department will contract with the University of Texas Ray Marshall Center will collaborate with stakeholders, workforce organizations, local businesses, and local schod datio y upregames development and stakeholder outcome
Meeting Date: 8/18/2016 Department: Economic Development Subject Authorize negotiation and execution of an interlocal agreement with The University of Texas for data collection and analysis in support of programs measuring the effects of youth focused programs in science, technology, engineering, math, creative and entrepreneurial studies, focusing on the growth of a pipeline of quality jobs for youth in poverty in a contract amount not to exceed $100,000 is available in the Fiscal Year 2015-2016 Economic Development Department Budget. Funding in the amount of $100,000 is available in the Fiscal Year 2015-2016 Economic Development Department Budget. Fiscal Note There is no unanticipated fiscal impact. A fiscal note is not required. Purchasing Language: Image: Imag	Recommendation for Council Action
Subject Authorize negotiation and execution of an interlocal agreement with The University of Texas for data collection and analysis in support of programs measuring the effects of youth focused programs in science, technology, engineering, math, creative and entrepreneurial studies, focusing on the growth of a pipeline of quality jobs for youth in poverty in a contract amount not to exceed $100,000 Amount and Source of Funding Funding in the amount of $100,000 is available in the Fiscal Year 2015-2016 Economic Development Department Budget. Fiscal Note There is no unanticipated fiscal impact. A fiscal note is not required. Purchasing Language: For More Information: Kevin Johns, Director, 512-974-7802; David Colligan, Global Business Recruitment and Expansion Manager, 512-974-6381 Council Committee, Boards and Commission Action: MBE / WBE: Related Items: Additional Backup Information The Economic Development Department will contract with the University of Texas Ray Marshall Center for research and for data collective impact framework to savess the progress and financial impact of creating a pipeline of quality jobs for youth in poverty. This collective impact framework will include working with all stakeholders to finalize a shared agenda, discuss and decide on the evelopment and utilization of mutually reinforcing activities across organizations to react heaves haved agenda, discuss and decide on the evelopment mean adjus in support of programs measuring the effects of youth focused programs in science, technology, engineering,	Austin City Council	Item ID	Item ID 61166 Agenda N		mber	30.
Authorize negotiation and execution of an interlocal agreement with The University of Texas for data collection and analysis in support of programs measuring the effects of youth focused programs in science, technology, engineering, math, creative and entrepreneurial studies, focusing on the growth of a pipeline of qualityjobs for youth in poverty in a contract amount not to exceed $100,000 is available in the Fiscal Year 2015-2016 Economic Development Department Budget. Fiscal Note There is no unanticipated fiscal impact. A fiscal note is not required. Purchasing Language: Prior Council Action: For More Information: Expansion Manager, 512-974-7802; David Colligan, Global Business Recruitment and Expansion Manager, 512-974-6381 Council Committee, Boards and Council Committee, Boards and Council Development Department will contract with the University of Texas Ray Marshall Center for research and for data collection and analysis in support of programs measuring the effects of youth focused programs in science, technology, engineering, math, creative (STEM-CE) and entrepretural studies. The Ray Marshall Center will collaborate with stakeholders, workforce organizations, local businesses, and local school districts using a collective impact framework to assess the progress and financial impact of creating a pipeline of undity obs for youth in poverty. This collective impact framework to assess the progress and financial impact of creating a pipeline of undity lobs for youth in poverty. This collective impact framework with askeholders out inalize a shared agenda, discuss and development STEM-CE focused mentoring and training efforts of participating school districts to create hand goals, consistently measure student and stakeholder outcomes, and engage in regular communication regarding progress toward mutually-eitermined equity and poverty goals. The Ray Marshall Center will classify and evaluate current STEM-CE focused mentoring and training efforts of participating school districts to cre	Meeting Date:	8/18/2016		Department:	Economi	ic Development analysis in support of programs measuring the effects of youth focused programs in science, technology, engineering, math, creative and entrepreneurial studies, focusing on the growth of a pipeline of quality jobs for youth in poverty in a contract amount not to exceed $100,000. Amount and Source of Funding Funding in the amount of $100,000 is available in the Fiscal Year 2015-2016 Economic Development Department Budget. Fiscal Note There is no unanticipated fiscal impact. A fiscal note is not required. Purchasing Language: Prior Council Action: For More Information: Kevin Johns, Director, 512-974-7802; David Colligan, Clobal Business Recruitment and Expansion Manager, 512-974-6381 Council Committee, Boards and Commission Action: MBE / WBE: Related Items: Additional Backup Information The Economic Development Department Will contract with the University of Texas Ray Marshall Center for research and for data collection and analysis in support of programs measuring the effects of youth focused programs in science, technology, engineering, math, creative (STEM-CE) and entrepreneurial studies. The Ray Marshall Center will collaborate with stakeholders, workforce organizations, local businesse, and local school districts using a collective impact framework to assess the progress and financial impact of creating a pipeline of quality jobs for youth in poverty. This collective impact framework will include working with all stakeholders to finalize a shared agenda, discuss and decide on the development and utilization of mutually reinforcing activities across organizations to reach shared goals, consistently measure student and stakeholder outcomes, and engage in regular communication regarding progress toward mutually-determined equity and poverty goals. The Ray Marshall Center will collaborate with stakeholders, workforce organizations, local businesse, and local school districts using a collective impact framework to assess the progress and financial impact of creating a pipeline of quali
Funding in the amount of $100,000 is available in the Fiscal Year 2015-2016 Economic Development Department Budget. Fiscal Note There is no unanticipated fiscal impact. A fiscal note is not required. Purchasing Language: Prior Council Action: Kevin Johns, Director, 512-974-7802; David Colligan, Global Business Recruitment and Expansion Manager, 512-974-6381 Council Committee, Boards and Commission Action: Additional Backup Information MBE / WBE: Additional Backup Information Metael Items: Additional Backup Information The Economic Development Department will contract with the University of Texas Ray Marshall Center for research and for data collection and analysis in support of programs measuring the effects of youth focused programs in science, technology, engineering, math, creative (STEM-CE) and entrepreneurial studies. The Ray Marshall Center will collaborate with stakeholders, workforce organizations, local businesses, and local school districts using a collective impact framework to assess the progress and financial impact of creating a pipeline of quality jobs for youth in poverty. This collective impact framework will include working with all stakeholders to finalize a shared agenda, discuss and decide on the development and utilization of mutually reinforcing activities across organizations to reach shared goals, consistently measure student and stakeholder outcomes, and en	analysis in support of programs measuring the effects of youth focused programs in science, technology, engineering, math, creative and entrepreneurial studies, focusing on the growth of a pipeline of quality jobs for youth in poverty in a contract amount not to exceed $100,000.
There is no unanticipated fiscal impact. A fiscal note is not required. Purchasing Language: Prior Council Action: For More Information: Kevin Johns, Director, 512-974-7802; David Colligan, Global Business Recruitment and Expansion Manager, 512-974-6381 Council Committee, Boards and Commission Action: MBE / WBE: Related Items: Additional Backup Information The Economic Development Department will contract with the University of Texas Ray Marshall Center for research and for data collection and analysis in support of programs measuring the effects of youth focused programs in science, technology, engineering, math, creative (STEM-CE) and entrepreneurial studies. The Ray Marshall Center will collaborate with stakeholders, workforce organizations, local businesses, and local school districts using a collective impact framework to assess the progress and financial impact of creating a pipeline of quality jobs for youth in poverty. This collective impact framework will include working with all stakeholders to finalize a shared agenda, discuss and decide on the development and utilization or mutually reinforcing activities across organizations to reach shared goals, consistently measure student and stakeholder outcomes, and engage in regular communication regarding progress toward mutually-determined equity and poverty goals. The Ray Marshall Center will classify and evaluate current STEM-CE focused mentoring and training efforts of partnering companies as well as facilitating the collective creation of metrics to measure the success and outcomes of the programs. Subsequently, the Ray Marshall Center will work with partnering companies and engage with local participating scho	Funding in the amount of $100,000 is available in the Fiscal Year 2015-2016 Economic Development Department Budget.
Purchasing Language: Prior Council Action: For More Information: Kevin Johns, Director, 512-974-7802; David Colligan, Global Business Recruitment and Expansion Manager, 512-974-6381 Council Committee, Boards and Commission Action: MBE / WBE: Related Items: Additional Backup Information The Economic Development Department will contract with the University of Texas Ray Marshall Center for research and for data collection and analysis in support of programs measuring the effects of youth focused programs in science, technology, engineering, math, creative (STEM-CE) and entrepreneurial studies. The Ray Marshall Center will collaborate with stakeholders, workforce organizations, local businesses, and local school districts using a collective impact framework to assess the progress and financial impact of creating a pipeline of quality jobs for youth in poverty. This collective impact framework will include working with all stakeholders to finalize a shared agenda, discuss and decide on the development and utilization of mutually reinforcing activities across organizations to reach shared goals, consistently measure student and stakeholder outcomes, and engage in regular communication regarding progress toward mutually-determined equity and poverty goals. The Ray Marshall Center will classify and evaluate current STEM-CE focused mentoring and training efforts of partnering companies as well as facilitating the collective reation of metrics to measure the success and outcomes of the programs. Subsequently, the Ray Marshall Center will work with partnering companies and engage with local participating school districts to create the necessary data sharing agreements and processes. The Ray Marshall
For More Information: Kevin Johns, Director, 512-974-7802; David Colligan, Global Business Recruitment and Expansion Manager, 512-974-6381 Council Committee, Boards and Commission Action: Manager, 512-974-6381 MBE / WBE: Related Items: Related Items: Additional Backup Information The Economic Development Department will contract with the University of Texas Ray Marshall Center for research and for data collection and analysis in support of programs measuring the effects of youth focused programs in science, technology, engineering, math, creative (STEM-CE) and entrepreneurial studies. The Ray Marshall Center will collaborate with stakeholders, workforce organizations, local businesses, and local school districts using a collective impact framework to assess the progress and financial impact of creating a pipeline of quality jobs for youth in poverty. This collective impact framework will include working with all stakeholders to finalize a shared agenda, discuss and decide on the development and utilization of mutually reinforcing activities across organizations to reach shared goals, consistently measure student and stakeholder outcomes, and engage in regular communication regarding progress toward mutually-determined equity and poverty goals. The Ray Marshall Center will classify and evaluate current STEM-CE focused mentoring and training efforts of partnering companies as well as facilitating the collective creation of metrics to measure the success and outcomes of the programs. Subsequently, the Ray Marshall Center will work with partnering companies and engage with local participating school districts to create the necessary data sharing agreements and processes. The Ray Marshall Cent		1		1
For More minimutor: Expansion Manager, 512-974-6381 Council Committee, Boards and Commission Action: MBE / WBE: MBE / WBE: Additional Backup Information The Economic Development Department will contract with the University of Texas Ray Marshall Center for research and for data collection and analysis in support of programs measuring the effects of youth focused programs in science, technology, engineering, math, creative (STEM-CE) and entrepreneurial studies. The Ray Marshall Center will collaborate with stakeholders, workforce organizations, local businesses, and local school districts using a collective impact framework to assess the progress and financial impact of creating a pipeline of quality jobs for youth in poverty. This collective impact framework will include working with all stakeholders to finalize a shared agenda, discuss and decide on the development and utilization of mutually reinforcing activities across organizations to reach shared goals, consistently measure student and stakeholder outcomes, and engage in regular communication regarding progress toward mutually-determined equity and poverty goals. The Ray Marshall Center will classify and evaluate current STEM-CE focused mentoring and training efforts of partnering companies as well as facilitating the collective creation of metrics to measure the success and outcomes of the programs subcool districts to create the necessary data sharing agreements and processes. The Ray Marshall Center identifies and fosters creative solutions to challenging education, workforce, and social	Prior Council Action:
Boards and Commission Action: MBE / WBE: MBE / WBE: Additional Backup Information Related Items: Additional Backup Information The Economic Development Department will contract with the University of Texas Ray Marshall Center for research and for data collection and analysis in support of programs measuring the effects of youth focused programs in science, technology, engineering, math, creative (STEM-CE) and entrepreneurial studies. The Ray Marshall Center will collaborate with stakeholders, workforce organizations, local businesses, and local school districts using a collective impact framework to assess the progress and financial impact of creating a pipeline of quality jobs for youth in poverty. This collective impact framework will include working with all stakeholders to finalize a shared agenda, discuss and decide on the development and utilization of mutually reinforcing activities across organizations to reach shared goals, consistently measure student and stakeholder outcomes, and engage in regular communication regarding progress toward mutually-determined equity and poverty goals. The Ray Marshall Center will classify and evaluate current STEM-CE focused mentoring and training efforts of partnering companies as well as facilitating the collective creation of metrics to measure the success and outcomes of the programs. Subsequently, the Ray Marshall Center will work with partnering companies and engage with local participating school districts to create the necessary data sharing agreements and processes. The Ray Marshall Center identifies and fosters creative solutions to challenging education, workforce, and social	For More Information:
Related Items: Additional Backup Information The Economic Development Department will contract with the University of Texas Ray Marshall Center for research and for data collection and analysis in support of programs measuring the effects of youth focused programs in science, technology, engineering, math, creative (STEM-CE) and entrepreneurial studies. The Ray Marshall Center will collaborate with stakeholders, workforce organizations, local businesses, and local school districts using a collective impact framework to assess the progress and financial impact of creating a pipeline of quality jobs for youth in poverty. This collective impact framework will include working with all stakeholders to finalize a shared agenda, discuss and decide on the development and utilization of mutually reinforcing activities across organizations to reach shared goals, consistently measure student and stakeholder outcomes, and engage in regular communication regarding progress toward mutually-determined equity and poverty goals. The Ray Marshall Center will classify and evaluate current STEM-CE focused mentoring and training efforts of partnering companies as well as facilitating the collective creation of metrics to measure the success and outcomes of the programs. Subsequently, the Ray Marshall Center will work with partnering companies and engage with local participating school districts to create the necessary data sharing agreements and processes. The Ray Marshall Center identifies and fosters creative solutions to challenging education, workforce, and social	Boards and
Additional Backup Information The Economic Development Department will contract with the University of Texas Ray Marshall Center for research and for data collection and analysis in support of programs measuring the effects of youth focused programs in science, technology, engineering, math, creative (STEM-CE) and entrepreneurial studies. The Ray Marshall Center will collaborate with stakeholders, workforce organizations, local businesses, and local school districts using a collective impact framework to assess the progress and financial impact of creating a pipeline of quality jobs for youth in poverty. This collective impact framework will include working with all stakeholders to finalize a shared agenda, discuss and decide on the development and utilization of mutually reinforcing activities across organizations to reach shared goals, consistently measure student and stakeholder outcomes, and engage in regular communication regarding progress toward mutually-determined equity and poverty goals. The Ray Marshall Center will classify and evaluate current STEM-CE focused mentoring and training efforts of partnering companies as well as facilitating the collective creation of metrics to measure the success and outcomes of the programs. Subsequently, the Ray Marshall Center will work with partnering companies and engage with local participating school districts to create the necessary data sharing agreements and processes. The Ray Marshall Center identifies and fosters creative solutions to challenging education, workforce, and social	MBE / WBE:
The Economic Development Department will contract with the University of Texas Ray Marshall Center for research and for data collection and analysis in support of programs measuring the effects of youth focused programs in science, technology, engineering, math, creative (STEM-CE) and entrepreneurial studies. The Ray Marshall Center will collaborate with stakeholders, workforce organizations, local businesses, and local school districts using a collective impact framework to assess the progress and financial impact of creating a pipeline of quality jobs for youth in poverty. This collective impact framework will include working with all stakeholders to finalize a shared agenda, discuss and decide on the development and utilization of mutually reinforcing activities across organizations to reach shared goals, consistently measure student and stakeholder outcomes, and engage in regular communication regarding progress toward mutually-determined equity and poverty goals. The Ray Marshall Center will classify and evaluate current STEM-CE focused mentoring and training efforts of partnering companies as well as facilitating the collective creation of metrics to measure the success and outcomes of the programs. Subsequently, the Ray Marshall Center will work with partnering companies and engage with local participating school districts to create the necessary data sharing agreements and processes. The Ray Marshall Center identifies and fosters creative solutions to challenging education, workforce, and social	Related Items:
school districts using a collective impact framework to assess the progress and financial impact of creating a pipeline of quality jobs for youth in poverty. This collective impact framework will include working with all stakeholders to finalize a shared agenda, discuss and decide on the development and utilization of mutually reinforcing activities across organizations to reach shared goals, consistently measure student and stakeholder outcomes, and engage in regular communication regarding progress toward mutually-determined equity and poverty goals. The Ray Marshall Center will classify and evaluate current STEM-CE focused mentoring and training efforts of partnering companies as well as facilitating the collective creation of metrics to measure the success and outcomes of the programs. Subsequently, the Ray Marshall Center will work with partnering companies and engage with local participating school districts to create the necessary data sharing agreements and processes. The Ray Marshall Center identifies and fosters creative solutions to challenging education, workforce, and social	The Economic Development Department will contract with the University of Texas Ray Marshall Center for research and for data collection and analysis in support of programs measuring the effects of youth focused programs in partnering companies as well as facilitating the collective creation of metrics to measure the success and outcomes of the programs. Subsequently, the Ray Marshall Center will work with partnering companies and engage with local participating school districts to create the necessary data sharing agreements and processes. The Ray Marshall Center identifies and fosters creative solutions to challenging education, workforce, and social	school districts using a collective impact framework to assess the progress and financial impact of creating a pipeline of quality jobs for youth in poverty. This collective impact framework will include working with all stakeholders to finalize a shared agenda, discuss and decide on the development and utilization of mutually reinforcing activities across organizations to reach shared goals, consistently measure student and stakeholder outcomes, and engage in partnering companies as well as facilitating the collective creation of metrics to measure the success and outcomes of the programs. Subsequently, the Ray Marshall Center will work with partnering companies and engage with local
	-			00			