What We Heard: Community and Stakeholder Engagement

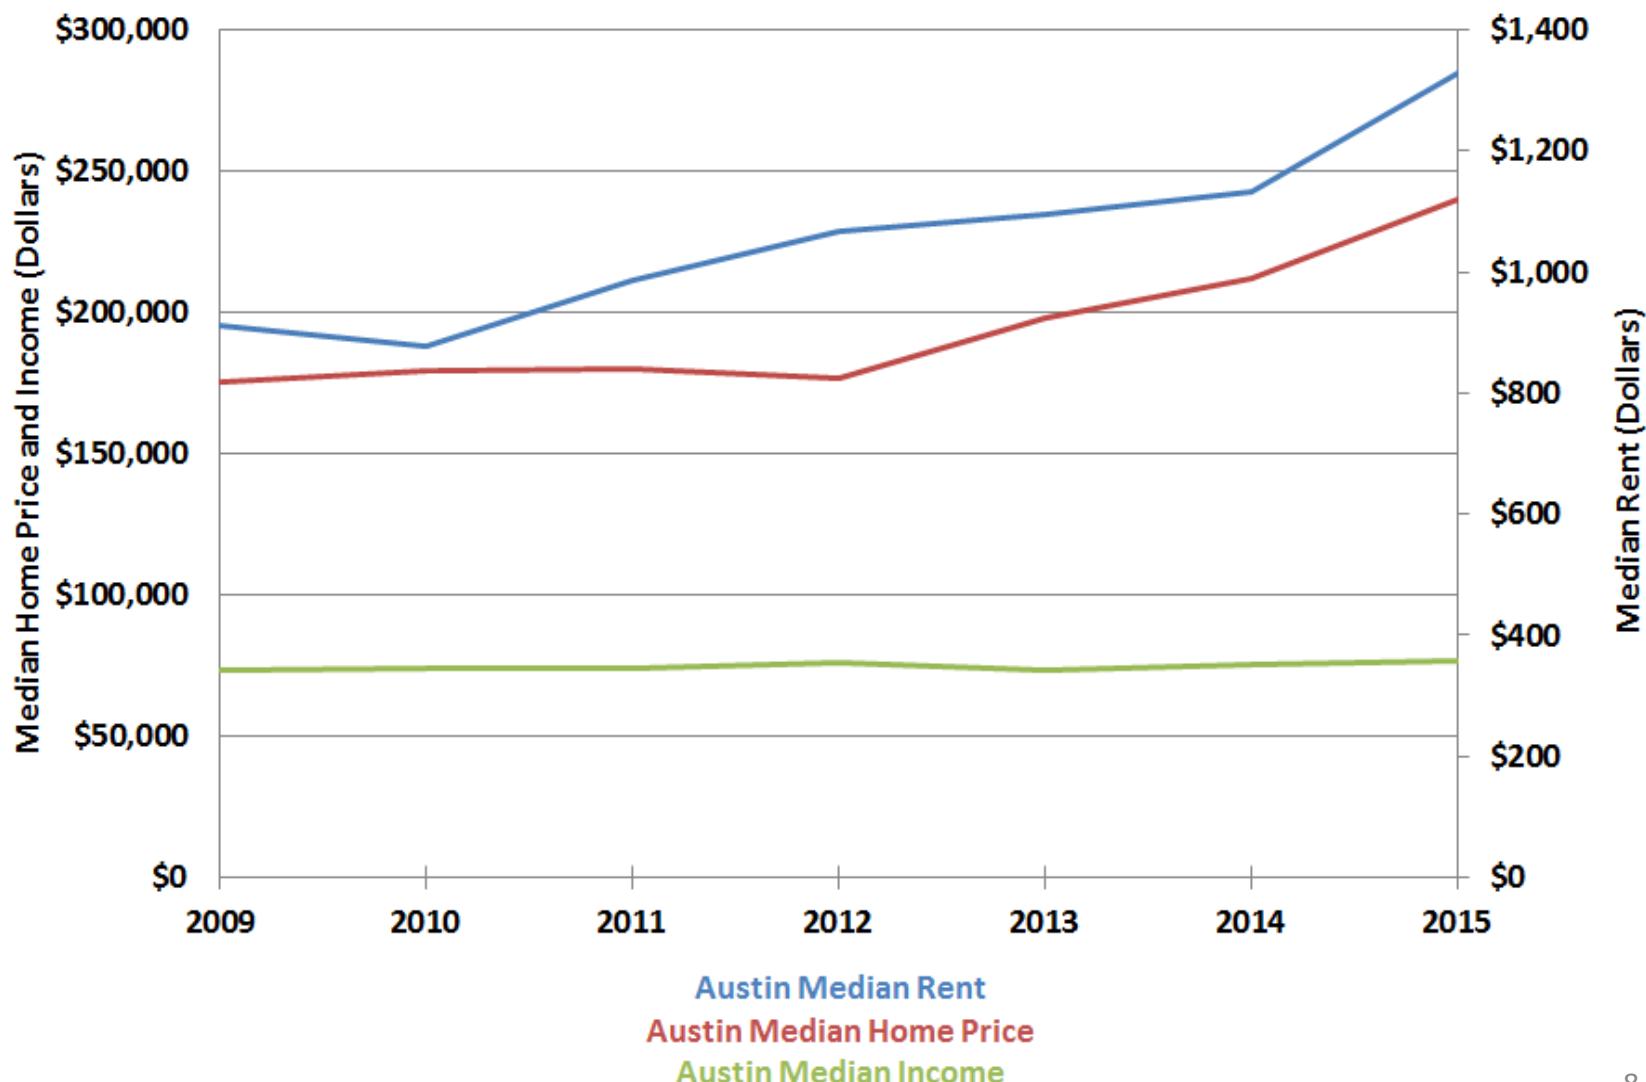

What We Heard

- Concern for those who can no longer afford to live here, as well as animosity toward new-comers.
- Concern about property tax increases for homeowners.
- Understanding of the need for more affordable housing in Austin, but lack of consensus of how to fund it.
- New affordable housing should be built where excellent transit infrastructure already exists or is planned.
- A greater percentage of units in new residential developments should be affordable.
- Zoning regulations should be relaxed on tiny houses, accessory dwelling units, and smaller housing units.
- Minimize regulations to enable the private market to build more housing to fill the housing gap.
- Better utilize land trusts as an affordable housing tool.
- The city should enact rent control and/or raise the minimum wage.⁶

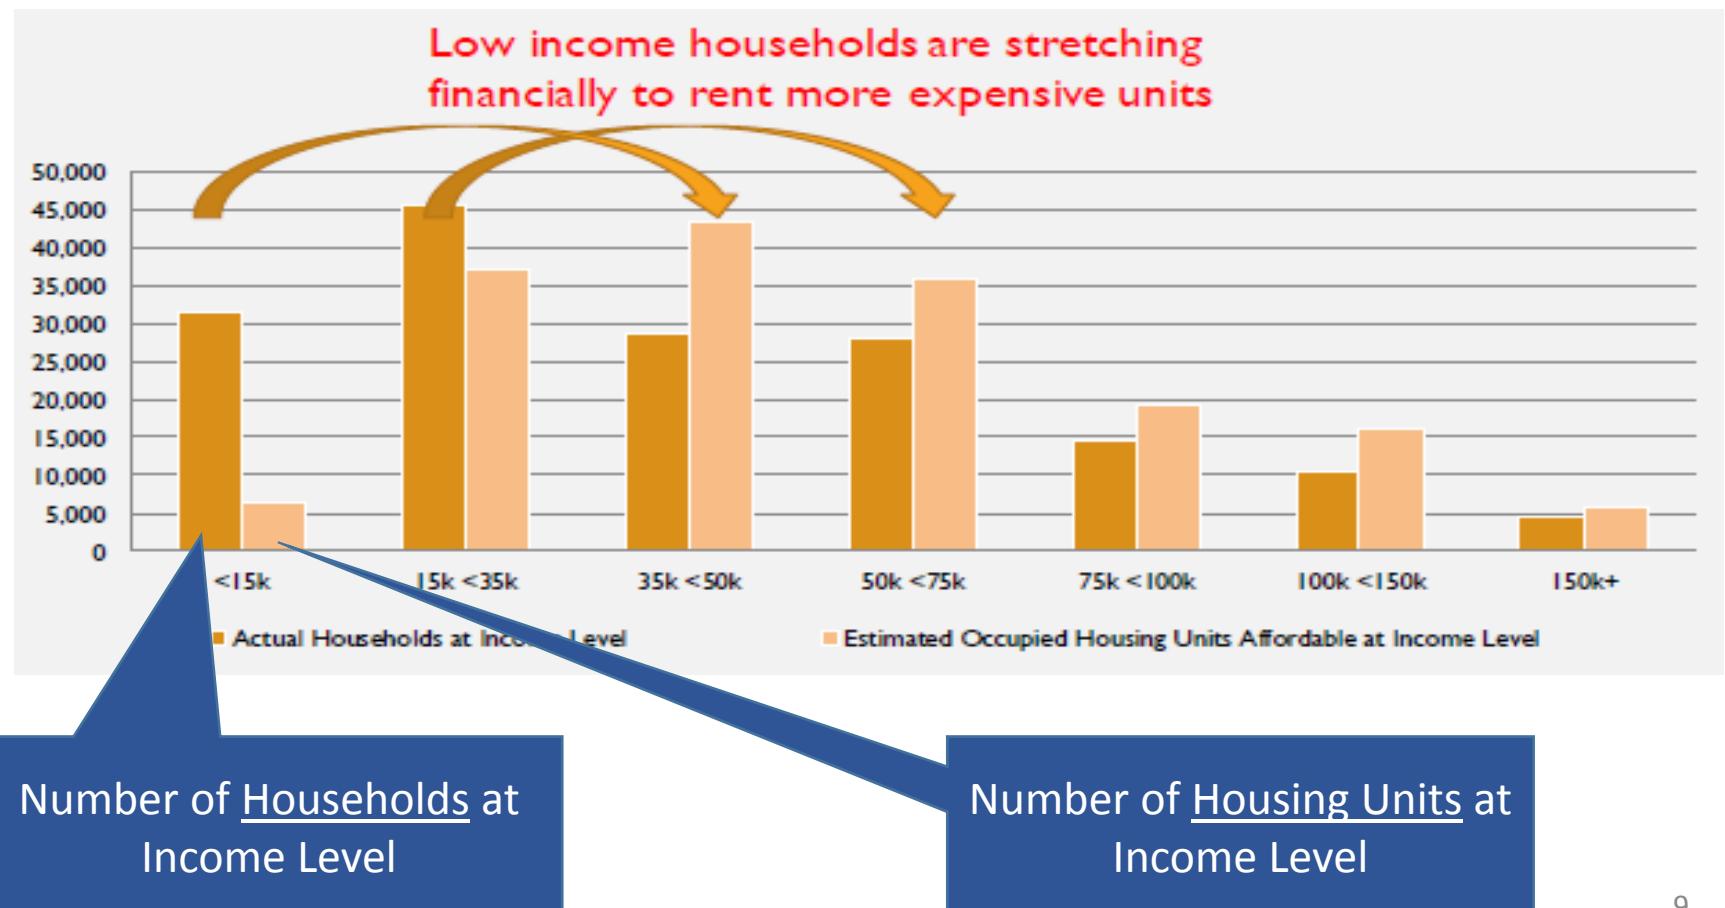

What is the Need?

- Great need for deeply affordable rental units (primarily those renting for less than $500/month) for renters earning <$25,000 per year
- Geographically limited housing opportunities:
 - Affordable rentals are scarce west of I-35
 - Homes to buy for <$250,000 concentrated in northeast, far south and southeast Austin
- Rising housing costs in some neighborhoods causing long-time residents to seek more affordable housing elsewhere
- A growing need for affordable housing near transit and services to:
 - Enable seniors to age in place
 - Provide a wider array of housing choices for persons with disabilities
 - Mitigate the financial impact of rising transportation costs

Future Housing Demand

- 400,000 additional people expected to live in Austin by 2045.
- Need for 200,000 additional housing units over the next thirty years to meet demand.
- Increased percentage of Millennials, Boomers, and single people in Austin.
- These households generally have fewer people, spurring an increased demand for smaller housing options.

Future Housing Demand

Closing the Affordable Rental Housing Gap

Cost of closing Austin's Affordable
Housing Gap Today $\approx $6.48$ Billion

Cost of closing Austin's Affordable
Housing Gap 2025 $\approx $11.18$ Billion

What's At Risk?

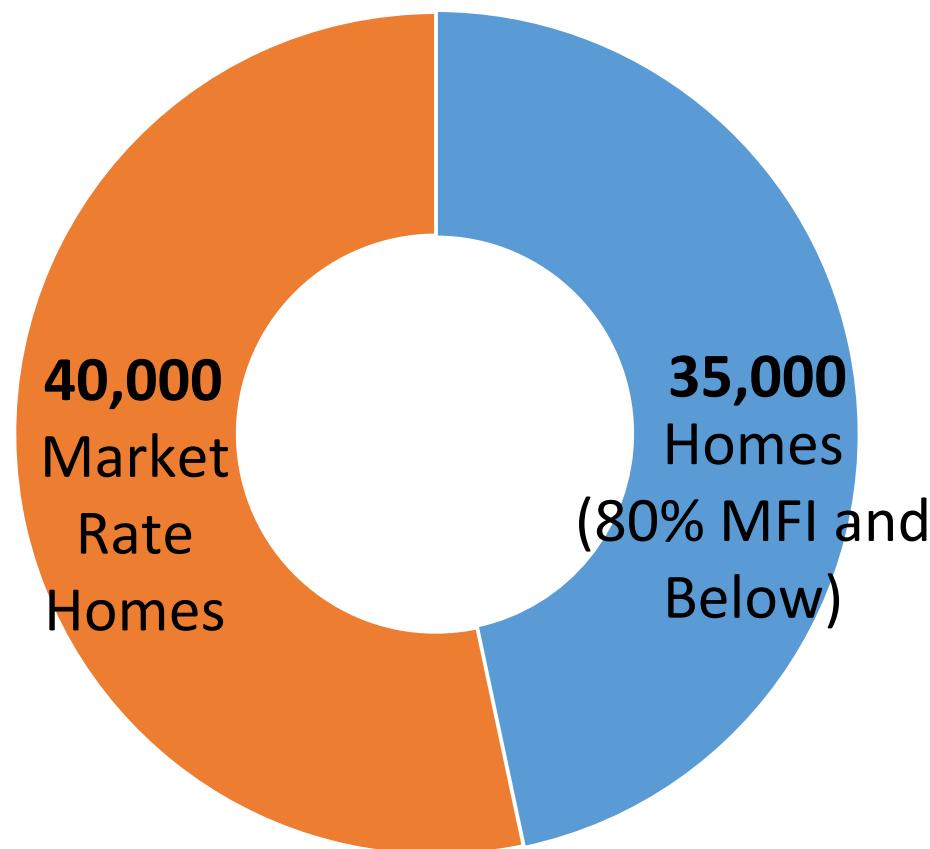

- Losing what makes Austin, Austin – it's people
- Becoming even more economically segregated
- Even worse traffic congestion as people are forced to move out of the city
- Becoming a city that is only affordable to the rich

Is that the type of city we want to be?
