

Texas Gas Service Company Energy Efficiency Program
Third Request for Information – Paul Robbins
January 12, 2018

- 1. For the TGS Residential Furnace Tune-up Rebate, please explain why there was no calculation of air conditioning savings for this measure.

RESPONSE: TGS hires third party consultant Paul Raab of energytools, llc. to perform the Benefit/Cost analysis. TGS does not determine the savings assumptions used in the analysis. Please refer to the direct testimony of Paul Raab, provided as Robbins 1-7 Attachment, for detail on the assumptions and sources used in the study.

- 2. In my second Request, I asked the following.

- 1. Regarding the Education budget, please detail what materials, reports, advertisements, programs, and projects are planned with this money, and the estimated expenditures for these various materials, reports, advertisements, programs, and projects.

- 2. I am requesting copies or samples of the materials, reports, and advertisements for the 2017 program year, as well as descriptions of programs and projects. Also, detail the estimated or actual expense for each of these for 2017.

I asked this presuming that all public outreach materials, reports, advertisements, programs, and projects of any kind would be in the Education budget and not in the Administrative budget.

If I was wrong, and public outreach materials, reports, advertisements, programs, and projects are also in the Administrative budget, then Queries (Requests) 1 and 2 are broadened to include the Admin budget as well.

RESPONSE: The requested information is included in the Education budget and has been provided within TGS responses to the first and second requests of the Second Request for Information.
