Additional Backup Information:

The contract is for maintenance, support and training for existing Industrial Defender automated systems manager (ASM) asset management software that enables efficient North American Electric Reliability Corporation (NERC) critical infrastructure protection (CIP) reporting for Austin Energy. The solution was designed from the ground up to isolate and identify assets that are in the control system footprint; the asset management function tracks changes to those assets and provides valuable insight when vulnerabilities emerge.

Industrial Defender ASM offers an advanced and comprehensive NERC CIP compliance solution that enables electric utilities to ensure compliance. Industrial Defender ASM automatically collects the necessary information across a diverse asset base, analyzes it, reports anomalies, and provides a turnkey solution to ease the compliance reporting burden.

Austin Energy originally purchased this software under its Advanced Distribution Management System contract with Telvent USA, LLC. The software was sold to Leidos Cyber, Inc. in August 2016. At this time, Leidos Cyber, Inc. owns all rights, title, and interest in and to the Industrial Defender ASM suite of software solutions and they do not have any authorized service providers for their tier three level of maintenance support required by Austin Energy.
