 DEMOLITION AND RELOCATION PERMITS
 HDP-2018-0275
 307 LELAND STREET

PROPOSAL

Demolish a ca. 1910 house.

ARCHITECTURE

Two-story, rectangular-plan, hipped roof, frame house with a central entry flanked by diamond-pattern sidelights and a diamond-pattern transom; hipped roof, partial-width, independent porch on ornamental metal posts; 1:1 fenestration.

RESEARCH

The house appears to have been built around 1910 by James D. Mosely and his wife, Martha, who moved here from their former home on South Congress Avenue, where they had a grocery business. James D. Mosely was a native of Alabama, and after moving his family into this house, embarked on a career as a traveling salesman, selling among other things, lightning rods. After his death in 1931, his widow, Martha, continued to live in this house until her death in 1945. She had two sons who lived with her for much of that time – Leland, who was divorced, and eventually moved to Brownwood, and Tolbert, who never married, and who remained in this house until his own death in 1986. Tolbert Mosely worked for Scarbrough's, the city's leading local department store, as a salesman, and eventually as a buyer. He retired in the mid-1970s. In 1950, he built the duplex adjacent to the house, which is also the subject of the application for demolition.

STAFF COMMENTS

The house was listed as a Priority 2 for research in the Comprehensive Cultural Resources Survey (1984).

Staff has evaluated this house for designation as a historic landmark and has determined that the house does not meet the criteria for landmark designation as set forth in City Code:

- a. Architecture. The house has unusual, but not significant architecture. It is a two-story structure with little architectural distinction, the only features warranting consideration are the diamond-paned sidelights and transom.
- b. Historical association. The house was owned by members of the Mosely family from the time of its construction around 1910, until Tolbert Mosely, the son of the first owners, passed away in 1986. James D. Mosely, the first owner, was a traveling salesman for the majority of the time that he lived here; his son Tolbert, worked as a salesman and buyer for Scarbrough's for his entire career. There do not appear to be significant historical associations.
- c. Archaeology. The house was not evaluated for its potential to yield significant data concerning the human history or prehistory of the region.
- d. Community value. The house does not possess a unique location, physical characteristic, or significant feature that contributes to the character, image, or cultural identity of the city, the neighborhood, or a particular demographic group.
- e. Landscape feature. The property is not a significant natural or designed landscape with artistic, aesthetic, cultural, or historical value to the city.

STAFF RECOMMENDATION

Encourage rehabilitation and adaptive re-use, then relocation over demolition, but release the permit upon completion of a City of Austin Documentation Package, consisting of photographs of all elevations, a dimensioned sketch plan, and a narrative history, for archiving at the Austin History Center. The house does not meet the criteria for individual designation as a historic landmark.

- 1909-10 Leland Street is not listed in the directory.
NOTE: James D. Mosely is listed as a traveling salesman living at 2101 South Congress Avenue. With him lived Avis Mosely, a milliner, no place of employment listed; and Bernice Mosely, a teacher. Sanborn maps show that the house that would have been at 2101 South Congress Avenue was a house other than this one.

NOTE: Earlier directories show that James D. Mosely was the proprietor of a grocery store at 2100 South Congress Avenue, further confirming that this house was built by the Mosely family when moving away from the South Congress address.

BIOGRAPHICLA NOTES:

James D. and Martha Mosely; Tolbert Mosely (ca. 1910 – ca. 1986)

James and Maggie Mosely appear in the 1900 U.S. Census at 408 W. Mary Street in Austin. James Mosely was born in 1858 in Alabama, and was a peddler. Maggie Mosely was born in 1865 in Texas. They had 6 children: Avis, born 1882; Bernice, born 1886; Morgan, born 1890; Audrey, born 1892; Leland, born 1895; and Lelia, born 1896. All the children had been born in Texas.
