

Austin Parks and Recreation Department and Austin ISD Interlocal Agreement

August 14, 2018

Presented by

Laura Esparza, Division Manager

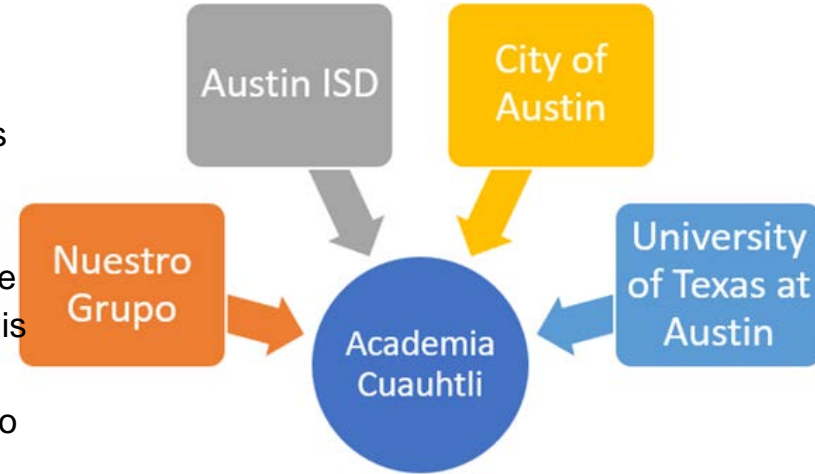

Interlocal Agreement

The purpose of this Agreement is to continue the framework for cooperation between the City and AISD to utilize classroom facilities at the ESB-MACC for the implementation of the Saturday Academy to support the advancement of literacy in English and Spanish for AISD children, youth, and their parents.

Background

The idea for a Saturday Academy emerged in 2013 during a meeting hosted by the Emma S. Barrientos Mexican American Cultural Center (ESB-MACC). A lively discussion ensued about the literacy challenges facing the Latino community and the need to commit to an effective, organized effort that UT education professor Dr. Angela Valenzuela later came to call a cultural and language revitalization project. The attendees encouraged Dr. Valenzuela to give programmatic form to this idea based on the past and ongoing work by institutions, individuals, and groups represented in the audience, some of whom volunteered to participate in the project.

By 2014, an interlocal agreement was signed between Austin ISD (AISD) and the City of Austin. This provided funding and technical assistance for Academia Cuauhtli, the development of curriculum, and the preparation of AISD teachers to participate in the Saturday morning instructional program.

Services Provided by AISD

1. Coordination, planning, and execution of the Academia Cuauhtli Saturday Academy, which recruits and welcomes families from Title 1 schools. The program is provided free to parents and their children through Nuestro Grupo;
2. Promotion of ESB-MACC as an institution, mission, and space in marketing materials, conferences, articles, and other events when Academia Cuauhtli and Nuestro Grupo programs are presented;
3. Weekly meetings to promote community engagement in a series of local initiatives related to education, community, health, art, and more;
4. AISD co-constructs professional curricula that is shared with the ESB-MACC and makes available districtwide in grades 3-7, and 11; and
5. As a program, AISD offers a variety of workshops that enhances Austinites' awareness of local opportunities, including public and higher education, as well as local community arts institutions and available opportunities for children and youth.
