

Whereas:

The CodeNEXT process produced a tremendous amount of consensus, in addition to points of strong disagreement;

Austin desperately needs an overhaul of our 1984 land development code to accomplish the goals of Imagine Austin;

Be it resolved that:

Planning Commission recommends a process be developed for moving forward on overhauling the 1984 land development code;

Planning Commission recommends the process be tackled in more manageable portions, including potentially separating out the technical chapters from the zone text from the zone mapping; and Planning Commission recommends a more expeditious, transparent, and equitable process including better public engagement across Austin's demographics and communities.
