HISTORIC LANDMARK COMMISSION SEPTEMBER 24, 2018 PERMIT IN NATIONAL REGISTER HISTORIC DISTRICT

NRD-2018-0061 1204 W. 10th Street West Line Historic District

PROPOSAL

Demolish a ca. 1918 house.

ARCHITECTURE

Front-gabled, rectangular-plan house clad in wood, with 1:1 vinyl-sash windows and a corner porch.

RESEARCH

The house was constructed around 1918. By 1927, Robert and Georgia Waterston had purchased the house; they lived there until 1939. Robert Waterston worked as a stone mason. Joe and Tiny Taylor bought and occupied the house around 1940. Joe was a longtime employee of the Austin Police Department and an expert marksman.

The house appears to have remained in its original form at least until the late 1970s, when a major remodel was undertaken. At that time, an existing porch on the east side of the house was likely enclosed into the shed-roofed side addition.

STANDARDS FOR REVIEW

The property is contributing to the West Line Historic District. It does not appear to meet the standards for designation as a historic landmark.

Designation Criteria—Historic Landmark

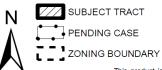

- 1) The building is more than 50 years old.
- 2) The building appears to retain a moderate degree of integrity. A side porch has been enclosed and original windows replaced.
- 3) Properties must meet two historic designation criteria for landmark designation (City of Austin Land Development Code (Section 25-2-352). The property does not appear to demonstrate significance according to any of the criteria.
  - a. Architecture. The building is built in a wing-and-gable style. It does not appear to be architecturally significant.
  - b. Historical association. Robert and Georgia Waterston lived in the house for approximately 20 years, while Joe and Tiny Taylor lived there for close to 30 years. However, there do not appear to be significant historical associations.
  - c. Archaeology. The property was not evaluated for its potential to yield significant data concerning the human history or prehistory of the region.
  - d. Community value. The property does not appear to possess a unique location, physical characteristic, or significant feature that contributes to the character, image, or cultural identity of the community, Austin, or Texas as a whole.
  - e. Landscape feature. The property is not a significant natural or designed landscape with artistic, aesthetic, cultural, or historical value to the city.

STAFF RECOMMENDATION

Encourage rehabilitation and adaptive re-use of the existing building, including consideration of a demolition delay, as the building is contributing to the historic district. If the Commission votes to approve the permit, then staff recommends completion of a City of Austin Documentation Package, consisting of photographs of all elevations, a dimensioned sketch plan, and a narrative history, for archiving at the Austin History Center.

Due to the building's location in a National Register historic district, the Commission must review and comment on the proposed plans for new construction prior to the release of the demolition permit. No plans have been received to date.

Background Research

Robert "Bob" James Waterston was born in 1877 in Northumberland, England, and immigrated to the U.S. in 1882. He worked as a stone mason and carpenter. The Waterston family lived in San Antonio in 1910, Georgetown from at least 1917-18, and Austin beginning in 1925. Bob Waterston died in 1943.

Death Takes Bob Waterston

Robert (Bob) Waterston, 65, died at his residence early Saturday. He has been a resident of Austin for over 60 years and was employed as a stone mason. Survivors are two sons, Robert J. Waterston, Tallahassee. Fla., and Tass D. Waterston of Dallas; one daughter, Miss Mayme Waterston of Austin; two brothers, Edward Waterston, Austin, and James Watersten of Liberty Hill; two sisters, Elizabeth Waterston of Wilmington, Del., and Mary Waterston of Austin. His stepmother, Mrs. James Waterston of Austin also survived.

Funeral services will probably be held at the Weed-Coriey Funeral home Sunday afternoon.

Georgia Waterston (nee Schieffer) was born in 1880 in Round Rock. By 1900, the family was living in Georgetown and her father was working as a grocery merchant. She married Robert Waterson around 1900, and the couple had at least three children. Georgia was involved in the Order of the Eastern Star—a Masonic body open to both men and women—as a matron, and acted in at least one comedic play the order produced in 1938. Georgia Waterston died in 1941.

MRS. GEORGIA WATERSTON

Mrs. Georgia Waterston, 61, lifetime resident of Central Texas, died at her home, 818 West Sixth street, Saturday.

Funeral services for Mrs, Waterston will be held Sunday at 4:30 p. m. from the Thurlow Weed Funeral home, and burial will be in Memorial Park under the auspices of the Order of the Eastern Star.

Mrs. Waterston was born Oct. 4, 1880, in Round Rock. In 1925 the family moved to Austin from Georgetown. She is a past matron of the Capitol chapter 803 of the O.E.S.

Mrs. Waterston is survived by her husband. Robert Waterston. Waterston daughter. Mayme Austin: two sons. R. J., Jr., Fla., Taliahasee. and Dallas. Waterston οľ formerly Travis county attorney; two brothers. Ferdinand and L. E. Schieffer. both of Austin, and a sister, Mrs. R. H. Ballerstedt of Bryan.

The Rev. F. E. Brooks, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will officiate Sunday afternoon at the funeral services.

Obituary, Austin American 11/9/1941.

Joseph Brown "Joe" Taylor was born in 1898 in Central Texas and grew up in Travis and Williamson counties. His father was a farmer in or near Manor, and Joe helped out on the farm from an early age. By 1930, he was working for the City of Austin Police Department. He remained there for 35 years and served as a foot patrolman, detective, and sergeant in charge of the pistol range. For the last five years of his career, he headed security at the Holly Street Power Plant. A member of the National Rifle Association, the Austin Police Association, and the Austin Rifle Club, Taylor was a top-ranked marksman in Texas. He helped the Austin Police Department aim at victory in statewide shooting competitions and organized gun training for fellow police officers in Austin. He also was involved in fraternal organizations such as the Colorado Lodge, the Masonic Lodge, the Scottish Rite, and Ben Hur Temple. Joe Taylor died in Austin in 1967.

Team Nears Perfection Without Practice

Keen Eye and Steel Nerve Boost Their Scores

The American-Stateman Sports Editor
THE NEAREST thing to perfection without practice.
That's the Austin police pistol team which will compete in the police pistol matches to be held in Laredo on July 19, 20, and 21.
Back in the boom days of 1929 the local police force entered a five-man team in the state shoot with great enthusiasm, but after they had finished tenth in a field of ten their feelings were near to shame. Members of the original team were Chief R. D. Thorp, Sgt. George Rogers, Joe Taylor, Jack Newman, and Ivor (Bill) Nitschke. "Why that first year we weren't equipped to do anything," said Sgt. George Rogers, captain of this year's team. "We were using pistols with short barrels, no target sights, and poor trigger pull, while others in competition were using .38's especially designed for target shooting."

"Why that first year we weren't equipped to do anything," said Sgt. George Rogers, captain of this year's team. "We were using pistols with short barrels, to target sights, and poor trigger pull, while others in competition were using 38's especially designed for target shooting."

After that first year, the Austin police pistol team was determined to make up for that poor showing. In 1930 they coupled truer marksmanship with their love of shooting Nitschke, went to Dallas determined.

and moved up to second in the standings.

The personnel of the team remained the same with the exception of one position, Chief Thorp, who ranks as one of the best marksman in the state, yielded his posi-tion to Tom E. Neal, The chief ex-plained that he felt that the team should be made up of his men on the force. With better equipment, more de-with better equipment, more de-termination, and natural ability the team was able to raise its stand-ard. And they still had done little practicing which made their feat even more commendable. They out-scored teams which had held daily ed to forget the handicaps and whip San Antonio as well as the rest in the field.

When points were totaled, police teams of Austin and Dallas were deadlocked for first place. But the locals had creedmoored the Dallocais had creedmoored the Dal-lasites by compiling a better score in the timed fire shoot, and the title was awarded to the boys who practiced little but shot a lot. And the San Antonio jinx was broken.

In the same manner Nitschke had won the individual championnad won the individual champion-ship. A better score in rapid fire had given him the medal over a Dallas officer who had tied Nitschke's total.

Things looked dark in 1935 after both Nitschke and Neal had left the force. Both had joined the Depart-ment of Justice. But they never dropped their shooting. Instead they found more time for practice and are now two of the best marksmen on the department's pistol team today. on the find that Sgt. H. W. Heiling was the man for the place. The lineup has remained the same since 1935. A few have tried to dislodge some the members but have always failed.

So when the whistle blows in Laredo on the morning of July 19 to start the slow fire shoot, Austin will be represented by Rogers, Heiling, Estepp. and Taylor. As a rule, Taylor is the high scorer of the team, more because rather than in spite of Heiling's and Roger's pushing him.

Joe Taylor Ranks Tops as Marksman

Joe B. Taylor, member of the Austin police department's pistol team, was notified Friday that he is one of the two highest ranking pistol marksmen in the expert class in the state. The notification was from the Colt Firearms company, which told Taylor that they wanted a picture for their 1941 booklet.

Rankings are made by the National Rifle association, based on scores at various competitive shoots. Taylor's average score for .22 and .38 pistols was 90.45; for .45 caliber pistols, 86.95. Expert rankings for the smaller caliber guns is from 88 to 91, and on 45's from 85 to 89. Shooters with scores above that are in the master class.

Austin Police Practicing Shots at Moving Target

Range Officer Joe Taylor of the Austin police department has only one creed for his pistol-toting officers: "When you shoot to hit, be sure you hit."

That's the reason why every police officer on the force goes out to the range at Zilker Park each month and shoots 50 rounds from all angles and positions. And twice a year, shoots 50 rounds in a special hip-shooting course.

Earlier this month, one of Taylor's "pupils" held on to the wheel of his patrol car going 100 miles an hour while chasing a burglar's auto, and took a fleeting shot with a pistol gripped in his other hand.

The odds of making such a shot with a target moving at 100 miles an hour 50 yards in front are about 100 to 1. And the officer missed in the only shot he had a chance to make.

No one could possibly blame the officer, but it put Taylor to thinking that maybe he should put on a new practice test to take care of such events.

Now he's rigging up an apparatus on the pistol range by which he yanks up a target for three seconds, and three seconds only. In that time, the officer must draw, fire and hit the target.

Taylor figures by the time he gets local police knocking off this three-second target with regularity, Austin's crooks will think twice before trying to make a break for it, either in a car or on foot.

Taylor's aim is to make any object within 75 yards of an officer, whether going 100 miles an hour or not, just something like shooting ducks in a barrel to his specially trained police marksmen.

Practice Pays Off Well For Police Pistol Team

use their guns-but when they do they'll come out on top,

So says Joe Taylor, pistof range officer for the police department.

The department's five-man pistol team has special jackets covered with stars from national shooting matches. Every man on the forceabout 140 of them-has to shoot at least 25 rounds a month on the range In Zilker Park.

"AUSTIN POLICEMEN are pretty good shots," Taylor said. That's the way they're trained. Sometimes Austin policemen seldom have to they have to shoot in a hurry, and when they do, they're prepared."

Perhaps the five best pistol shots on the force are Taylor, Fred Estepp and Lieutenants H. W. Heiling, Russell Forester and O. H. Ludwigthe pistol team.

The team won first in the center fire match June 15 at the Texas Police Association Convention in San Antonio. They also placed second in the .22 calibre match and second in the grand total of the .22 and center fire matches.

The team practices four days a week from 4 to 6 p. m. at the Zilker

"They shoot over a national match course with three guns-the .22 caliber, center fire and .45 automatic," Taylor said.

Center fire includes anything with the special center fire cartridge shot in a pistol of 32 caliber or larger.

There are 36 "disappearing" targets on the range placed at 25 yards.

A lever brings the target around to face the shooter and then jerks it back again for time shooting.

There are also 36 stationary targets at 50 yards.

The national match course includes 10 shots of slow fire, 10 shots time fire and 10 shots at record fire.

In slow fire, the shooter fires 10

In slow fire, the shooter fires 10 shots, one every minute, at a target 50 yards away. In time fire, he shoots five shots in 20 seconds, re-loads and shoots five more, all at Italian and shoots five more, all at 25 yards.

Rapid fire, perhaps the most difficult, calls for shooting five shots in 10 seconds at a 25-yard target, reloading and repeating the procedure at a given command.

Taylor was a doubty-constable in Taylor was a deputy-constable in 1927 before he joined the police force in 1928. He's been on the firing range ever since. His duties include instructing rookies, the pistol team and regular officers. He operates the range loading machine which also melts down lead and casts bullets. All shells are saved and the lead is recovered from the targets.

OFFICERS FURNISH their own

OFFICERS FURNISH their own guns, he explained. The most common type is a .38. No rifles are used on the range.

Taylor says he likes to hunt with a .22 pistol. He takes it with him on his annual deer hunt and "has bagged a couple" with the diminutive submetter.

Obituary for Joe B. Taylor, Austin Statesman 8/22/1967.

Tiny (or Tiney) Drury Taylor was born in 1896 in Robertson County, Texas, roughly 100 miles northeast of Austin. Tiny completed two years of college and, by 1919, was working as one of three teachers in Travis County's Hornsby-Dunlap school. She married Joe B. Taylor between 1920 and 1927, and the couple had four daughters. A 1932 city directory lists the family as living next door at 1206 W. 10th Street, though they had moved out by 1935. By 1940, they had returned to the street and were living at 1204 W. 10th Street with Joe Taylor's mother and a servant. Tiny was involved in the Travis County Council of Women and the Twentieth Century Sunday Club. She died in 1977 in Austin. Her death certificate lists Pearl Tiny Taylor as an alternate name.
