Waller Creek Timeline

1975

A concerted effort by numerous urban planners, architects, landscape architects and engineers creates the Waller Creek Development Plan to work on improvements to the Waller Creek corridor as part of the City of Austin's U.S. Bicentennial project. The plan includes recommendations for immediate, near future and long-range development through land use, circulation, landscape architectural design elements, and flood and erosion control systems.

1981

13 people drown and $36 million in damages are incurred during a storm event on May 24, 1981, remembered as the "Memorial Day Flood." This short-duration storm with intense rainfall hits many of Austin's urban creeks: Shoal, Walnut, Little Walnut, Bee and Waller Creek.

2010

The Waller Creek Conservancy is created in November to act as the steward of Waller Creek by playing a vital role in the preservation, redevelopment and maintenance of the creek's surrounding parks, nearby businesses, adjoining neighborhoods and community at large.

2011

On April 8, 2011, a groundbreaking ceremony marks the start of construction of the Waller Creek Tunnel. On April 28, 2011, the Austin City Council approves a resolution creating the Waller Creek Local Government Corporation to act on behalf of the City in partnering with the Waller Creek Conservancy to develop, operate and maintain Waller Creek District. The Waller Creek Conservancy forms a historic partnership with the City of Austin, with both committing $400,000 to fund the design and implementation of a new master plan for the Waller Creek area. In November, the Waller Creek Conservancy launches Design Waller Creek: A Competition, an international design competition that calls for the most innovative and qualified landscape architects, architects and artists to join forces and present their ideas for remaking a currently fragmented and undervalued section of Austin into a vibrant, livable, workable district.

2012

Eleven months after the initial call for portfolios, Design Waller Creek: A Competition concludes with the announcement of the selected design team: Michael Van Valkenburgh Associates, Inc. and Thomas Phifer & Partners. Austin City Council unanimously votes to affirm the selected teams on October 18, 2012. In a November 2012 bond election, Austinites approve $13 million for the redevelopment of Waller Creek.

2013

On April 13, 2013, the Waller Creek Conservancy holds a community picnic in Palm Park. The inaugural Palm Park picnic is a huge success in bringing Austinites back to the chain of parks on Waller Creek.

2014

On April 16, 2014, the Local Government Corporation, or LGC, meets to approve the Joint Development Agreement & Operating Maintenance Agreement, a landmark agreement that governs the work in the Waller Creek District.

2015

On May 5, 2015, the Waller Creek Tunnel fills with floodwaters for the first time - a historical moment marking a new era for Waller Creek.

2016

On March 5, 2016, the Waller Creek Conservancy and The Contemporary Austin present Orly Genger: Hurlyburly, the inaugural installation of the new public art collaboration project.

2017

Forever Bicycles, an installation by world renowned artist Ai Weiwei, is showcased at the Waller Creek Delta.

The Moody Foundation contributes a $15 million grant, the largest grant of its kind awarded for public open space in the city, to fund a new amphitheater at Waterloo Park.

The Waller Creek Conservancy and the City of Austin celebrate the groundbreaking of the Waterloo Park Structured Lawn project.

2018

Austin City Council approves an additional $110 million in capital funding for the completion of the parks and trail system through the Waller Creek District.

The Waller Creek Local Government Corporation approves the Waterloo Park Construction Phase Plan and the Operating and Management Agreement for the Park, a monumental first step towards realizing the vision for the Waller Creek Chain of Parks.

Waller Creek Conservancy Relocates to Symphony Square

Last fall, the Waller Creek Conservancy renovated a large part of Symphony Square to serve as the Conservancy's new office and event space. The Conservancy will occupy the former Serranos restaurant site, the Hardeman House, the 2,100 square foot pavilion space, and the former New Orleans Club site with all of its 900 square feet. The non-profit will also maintain the 350 person capacity creekside amphitheater, which will be used to host the Austin Symphony Orchestra's events. The location of the Conservancy's offices is adjacent to the Waller Creek District's first major construction project at Waterloo Park. Images: Waller Creek Conservancy

The team will work on incorporating this feedback, along with other project reviews, into the Construction Documents, which will begin in late spring/early summer of 2019.

PUBLIC PROJECT 02

Palm Park

Status: The Waller Creek Conservancy and the City of Austin will reengage in design of Palm Park upon understanding of the future plans for the school through coordination with Travis County.

Additional site plan elements include design options for mobility access or circulation, the "Gran Entrada" or entrance to the complex, its relationship to the waterfront at Lady Bird Lake and Waller Creek, and to the neighboring commercial and residential properties. In November, Austin voters approved General Obligation Bond Proposition B, which will provide $27 million toward the next phase of the master plan's implementation.
