Community Request for Qualifications (RFQS) and Request for Proposal (RFP). It represents an opportunity to provide a critical need identified by the community that further aligns the development at Colony Park with the City's Strategic Outcomes of Economic Opportunity & Affordability, and Health & Environment.

The City of Austin Economic Development Department (EDD) and Central Health propose to request City Council authority to negotiate and subsequently bring forward for City Council approval an interlocal agreement that enables the City and Central Health to share costs for the planning, economic, and real estate due diligence efforts needed to evaluate the suitability a Health and Wellness Campus within the 208-acre Colony Park Sustainable Community. As stipulated in the Colony Park RFQS/RFP, the City reserves the right to negotiate with Central Health, independently from the master developer, on a health and wellness center to serve the immediate and critical needs of the Northeast Austin and Northeast Travis County communities on up to 5 acres of land in the Loyola Town Center and Innovation District. The anticipated outcomes include planning alternatives that will inform a recommended site concept plan, estimates of site and infrastructure investments, and economic analysis to establish the business terms for the real estate transaction. The interlocal agreement will specify the terms of the cost-sharing agreement, roles and responsibilities and timetable for deliverables.
