

MEMORANDUM

TO: Dawn Lewis, Chair, Parks and Recreation Board

FROM: Kimberly McNeeley, CPRP, Director
Austin Parks and Recreation Department

DATE: June 19, 2020

SUBJECT: Endorsement of the Renaming of Metz Recreation Center

This memorandum serves as my support for renaming Metz Recreation Center to Rodolfo “Rudy” Mendez Recreation Center.

Process

On December 5, 2019, City Council passed Resolution No. 20191205-117 (Attachment A), which initiated the process to rename Metz Recreation Center under Austin City Code 14-1-39. This resolution for renaming the facility nominated Rodolfo “Rudy” Mendez. The Parks and Recreation Department (PARC) began a 90-day period to receive public comment, which culminated on May 2, 2020.

This memorandum outlines the work and serves as the formal submission to the chair of the Parks and Recreation Board according to subsection 14-1-39(F).

Background

The ordinance naming Metz Recreation Center was approved by City Council on November 3, 1983 through Ordinance No. 83 1103-C (Attachment B), 11 years after the facility opened. While the ordinance is unclear as to whether the recreation center was named after the person Metz or the area of the city that became associated with the name due to the presence of the nearby Metz Elementary School, the Resolution and the process have been informed by the person, Hamilton M. Metz. The resolution provides additional justification for the renaming of the facility by acknowledging the Confederate Monuments Resolution (20171005-031) and “undoing Austin’s racist past through honoring community members who dedicated their lives to the betterment of Austin.”

Hamilton M. Metz (1840-1915) was an Austin firefighter before joining the Confederate Army’s Texas Calvary during the Civil War where he achieved the rank of captain. After the end of the Civil War, Metz returned to Austin where he served as Travis County Tax Assessor and Austin School District board member and eventually president. Shortly after he died in 1915, the new Metz Elementary School was named in his honor.

Rodolfo “Rudy” Mendez (1944-2019) was born in Austin. He studied dance and performance in New York and Spain and served as a Peace Corps Volunteer in Chile and Costa Rica before returning to Austin.

While in Austin, he dedicated his life to mentoring and teaching dance to youth in East Austin. He served the community as a program specialist at Metz Recreation Center, founded Ballet East Dance Company and developed the nationally recognized “Dare to Dance” program. Mendez was devoted to mentoring the youth who danced in his classes and his folklórico classes continue to this day on Saturday mornings at the recreation center.

Community Engagement

The renaming ordinance requires PARD to “take reasonable steps to inform persons who are likely to have an interest “... consider[ing] the nature and location of the facility and whether a particular community is likely to be especially interested in the process.”

To achieve this goal, PARD focused on the geographic area of the recreation center as well as connecting to the Metz Recreation Center’s visitors and patrons. PARD placed flyers (Attachment C) at local businesses, reached out to people connected to the dance community and sent general notices across the city through Facebook and Nextdoor. In addition, PARD Community Services Coordinator Larry Williams spoke about the renaming process on “Good Day Austin” on Fox7 Austin on February 25. Each promotion shared the opportunity to comment on the proposed name change online or in person at two community meetings.

Community comments were collected online and in-person at the recreation center using a short survey tool (Attachment D). In addition, two community meetings were promoted for February 29 and March 3 where interested community members could hear a presentation to learn about the process, the two individuals and provide feedback (Attachment E).

Results and Recommendations

The survey tool had 336 respondents with 97% supporting the proposed name change; 9 respondents indicated that they did not want the facility name to change (Attachment F). The two community meetings were lightly attended and overwhelmingly supported the name change (Attachment G).

Dissenting Voices

Attachment F contains five comments that do not support the renaming of the recreation center. These comments have been highlighted. The comments focus primarily on not needing to change the name, because it is fine how it is. One comment acknowledges the long history Metz had serving the Austin community. Another comment points to growth and ongoing changes in Austin that make it more difficult to get around as well as the need to acknowledge the past and be sure not to repeat it.

The Parks and Recreation Department honors those voices and appreciates their willingness to share their comments in this process.

Conclusion

Based on the community feedback and the amazing life of Mr. Mendez, I support renaming Metz Recreation Center to Rodolfo “Rudy” Mendez Recreation Center.

Confederate Monuments Report

Equity Office, 2018

“It is essential to acknowledge that societal values are fluid, and they can be and are different today compared to when our city made decisions to name and/or place these Confederate symbols in our community,” the Equity Office’s report notes.

“It is also important to acknowledge that nearly all monuments to the Confederacy and its leaders were erected without a true democratic process. People of color often had no voice and no opportunity to raise concerns about the city’s decision to honor Confederate leaders.”

-  We support and defend the US flag in this country, and therefore, I think it is time we stop honoring those who fought against it and look to role models that better inspire creativity that lifts the community in a more relevant and meaningful way. That would be much more like Austin.

-  As a native East Austinite and Mexican American, I can personally attest to the incredible impact and legacy left by Rudy Mendez. Rudy was a pillar in our Latino Mexican American community and always places the needs of our children and Latino community first. He remains deeply respected and regarded and he should absolutely honor his legacy.

-  Rodolfo Mendez was a pillar of the arts and East Austin community and touched the lives of many, many youth and adults through his company Ballet East Dance Company and at Metz Recreation Center where he created a center for arts, learning and community. This renaming would give tribute to him in a way that he will always be remembered and honored.

-  I think it's important to memorialize the history and keep educating young people and newcomers about the history of this area. I support the renaming, and urge our institutions to make it a practice to share the history of the former names, the German American community that lived on Holly shores before racial segregation; the anti-Mexican/ pro-segregationist campaign to keep Metz whites-only and segregate Zavala Elementary just a few blocks away. And finally, to celebrate the heroes of our more recent history, like Rudy Mendez and the network of Mexican Americans and other East Austinites who made the community what it is.

Rudy was a cultural treasure and an advocate for Latinas/Latinos in the arts as well as for the Eastside community. He was committed to providing artistic opportunities in the barrio at both Metz Rec Center and at Martin Middle School (ballet folklorico and other dance opportunities). He lived on the Eastside and supported Metz Rec Center as both a staff member and as a community member and advisory board member. He was recognized by the Austin History Center as a Trailblazer and is an inductee of the Austin Arts Hall of Fame. The naming of this facility for Rudy is well deserved because of his vast impact and influence as well as because of his Eastside roots.

Wow!! Totally! My mom and my aunt Cathleen Walter used to take his classes/ be in his company when i was a kid! Years later I taught alongside him in the AISD after schoool program. Then in 2003 when I opened my own studio I learned that one of my good friends Gabriel Mendez (Bboy Blitz) was his nephew and I really recognized the depth of our influence as dancers, teachers and artists! Rudy totally deserves this and has my vote!!!! 🙌👍👏❤️👏❤️👏👏 let's make his legacy history!!!!

-  The last time I was at Metz mas for a rehearsal with a dancer from Alvin Ailey in New York, who Rudy brought in to choreograph for his company. This unique experience would never have happened if not for his generous spirit and commitment to accessible arts. Rudy always remained true to himself and his beliefs, and city of Austin benefitted from this for decades through his service. Renaming Metz Recreation Center in his name would be a wonderful acknowledgment.

-  We pay homage to people we respect by name naming locations in our everyday life after them. It's entirely appropriate and imperative that we update these when the symbolism is no longer in synch with our cultural beliefs OR when a memory more important or close to home is worth recognizing. As a native Texan and very long time Austin resident, I love the idea of naming after a local doer that gives more homage to Austin's own identity.

-  The legacy of Rodolfo "Rudy" Mendez is east Austin and American history. As people and places that tell Mexican American history in east Austin rapidly disappear, this renaming can serve to preserve and elevate the voices of Mexican Americans that made Austin what it is today. It is rare to find descendants of 'border crossed them' Mexican American families, families who were involuntarily naturalized into U.S. citizenship by the signing of the Treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo. Mr. Mendez is such a descendant and his story and contributions must be preserved for future generations.

with ever changing names, it is difficult to orient oneself in this city (i have lived here over 30 years). I understand we may have concerns about some elements of the US past, but we have to accept (not celebrate), and remember history. if we can cel it out, we repeat it. in addition, i can say Mendez is a very common name, again, the idea is to make something stand out and be recognizable, not to blur. I am already confused enough navigating this fast growing city. and i still call Townlake the body of water that now as a million different names for the pedestrian bridge, the trail, the lake, the.... whatever: it's townlake. Let's please stop changing names non stop. Metz is Metz. clear . simple. thank you.

My daughter is a low income special education student. She began dancing with Ballet East under the direction of Rudy Mendez. She went from a shy, quiet girl to a confident outgoing young woman. Prior to dancing, she never spoke a word at school. 5 years later she is in a magnet school, excelling academically, doing public speaking and continues to grow leaps and bounds. Despite her size and disability, Rudy gave her a change to shine because he saw potential and believed in her. I fully support the renaming!

Rudy Mendez was a mentor and helped me found Latinitas, an Austin based nonprofit that empowers all girls to innovate using media and tech. It can't be put into words how well he maximized Metz for community engagement and help -providing programs there for children and adults - dance instruction to drug prevention. I was emotionally moved to see the city suggest this and would be available to help with any planning or fundraising.

- “Things should not happen to the community; they should happen for the community”
- Martin Middle School dance team (Eaglettes) performed and won in national competitions
- Baile Folklorico – Rudy would check up on students and stay connected
- Ballet East Board – grants, videos, all documented; continues today and has not ended
- The neighborhood is changing. We can leave a legacy that can be searched and understood
- The soccer kids were also the folklorico kids who he followed to college and took care of basic needs (groceries, computers at college, etc.) – he took a holistic approach to caring for the kids
- Ballet East toy drive
- He had a bedroom in his house, but I never knew him to sleep
- Rudy would always go the extra mile, but he needed you to go with him
- Folklorico and contemporary dance continues
- He was persuasive and demanded a lot
- Marie Martinez, former president of Ballet East, took care of all of their books, has a ton of information
- Millie Hernandez, director
- Would bring groups from China and other countries to expose people to other types of dance from all over the world
- Folklorico kids were exposed to new experiences and other dancing. He took kids to Nutcracker each year so they could see outside of their world. Traveling outside state for the first time for many of the kids.
- Keep the kids for those hours to make sure the kids were challenged physically, mentally. Also a way to keep the parents involved (backstage)

What does it mean to honor the history?

- Rudy lived here. Literally gave his life for the children of this neighborhood. More than fitting to name it after him.
- The connection.
- He connected way beyond this community. He was concentrated in East Austin, but he was so connected to the national and international dance scene. He would be choreographers from Chicago, New York, and more. Regina Larkin would come down every year.
- Finally recognizing all that he did. Our way to give back to him after he spent his life giving back to us. He never took any awards or recognition, because it was always about the kids.

-“Our understanding was that the rec center was named after the neighborhood or the school, not Metz the person.” So renaming shouldn’t be an issue.

-further discussion on how the renaming process works, the limitations on renaming a place that was named after a person, and how Metz Rec came to be named.

How do you Honor the community?

“[the renaming] is not so much about honoring the community as the community honoring him.”

Danny – “I want to make this happen, so I’m willing to go and find what you need in order to back the support from the community.”

“We [the Ballet East company] have wanted to approach it as a family driven initiative and with us [Ballet East] as the backing to the family.”

- further discussion on how the Metz Renaming was originally brought about for clarification.
