Additional Backup Information:

The proposed amendment will increase the authorization allowing Austin Energy to continue to purchase Quest software products and extend software maintenance and support services. The initial contract consolidated Quest manufactured software products including SQL, TOAD, and Change Auditor under one agreement. Quest simplifies workflows, automates frequent or repetitive processes, and minimizes risks associated with change. The Quest tools also provide data migration capabilities, essential for large-scale technology projects. Austin Energy's expected usage of these products increased due to teleworking requirements related to work from home and shelter in place orders.
