The City entered into an agreement with ACGC in 2014 as a result of an Austin Public Health Department Health Self-Sufficiency Request for Applications (RFA) process, and services began on September 1, 2015 for an initial 37-month period ending on September 30, 2018, with three 12-month extension options. This agreement improves access and services to children and families residing in Austin/Travis County by providing mental health services to low-income populations. ACGC's Underserved Families Mental Health Program serves children and their families through case management, counseling, psychiatry, group therapy, and parenting classes.

ACGC is a 501(c) (3) non-profit organization that works cooperatively with mental health service providers, local school districts, juvenile probation offices, and clinics. In 2013 ACGC developed the Trauma Informed Care Consortium of Central Texas (TICC). The TICC convenes over 35 child-serving agencies who work with children and families who have experienced trauma, to share resources and best practices, and provide training.
