

HISTORIC LANDMARK COMMISSION
JANUARY 25, 2021
PERMITS IN NATIONAL REGISTER HISTORIC DISTRICTS
GF-2020 194583
1616 NORTHUMBERLAND ROAD
OLD WEST AUSTIN NATIONAL REGISTER HISTORIC DISTRICT

PROPOSAL

Demolish a ca. 1940 house.

ARCHITECTURE

1616 Northumberland is a two-story house clad in horizontal wood siding with second-floor balcony, 6:6 wood windows, and side-gabled roof. The Historic Landmark Commission approved a partial demolition and porch remodel in April of 2020.

RESEARCH

The house at 1616 Northumberland Road was constructed in 1940 for Francis J. and Jane Johson Amsler. Francis Amsler was employed by the E.M. Scarbrough Company for almost 50 years, beginning his career as a teenager in 1923 before advancing to credit manager, treasurer, and vice-president of the company. Amsler was active in Austin's business and retail community throughout his long career, serving as head of the Better Business Bureau, president of the Texas State Retail Merchants' Association, chairman of the Austin Advertising Review Board, chairman of Downtown Austin Unlimited, and president of the Retail Credit Executives of Texas. The Amslers contributed to Austin in other ways as well: Jane Amsler was active in the Red Cross and Francis Amsler served the Austin Community War Chest, Child and Family Services, and the United Fund. The Amslers lived at 1616 Northumberland until at least 1974.

STAFF COMMENTS

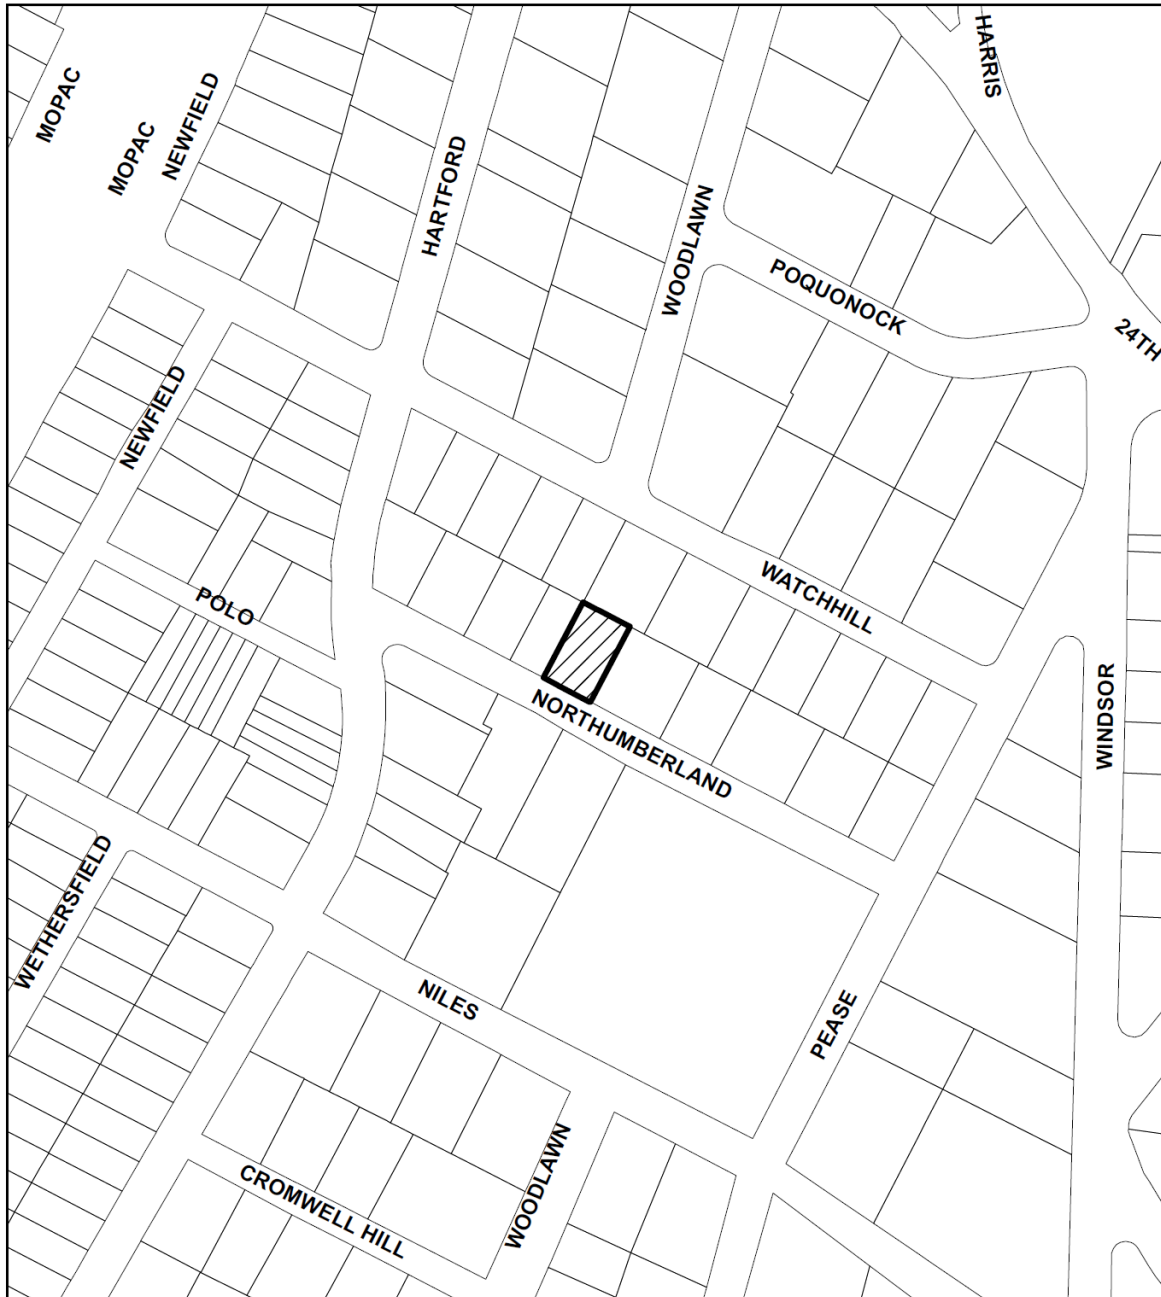

Designation Criteria—Historic Landmark

- 1) The building is more than 50 years old.
- 2) The building does not retain integrity.
- 3) Properties must meet two historic designation criteria for landmark designation (LDC §25-2-352). The property has been evaluated and does not meet two criteria:
 - a) Architecture. The building displays Monterey and Colonial Revival influences.
 - b) Historical association. There do not appear to be historical associations; however, the Commission may consider the contributions of retail executive Francis Amsler to Austin business and advertising.
 - c) Archaeology. The house was not evaluated for its potential to yield significant data concerning the human history or prehistory of the region.
 - d) Community value. The house does not possess a unique location, physical characteristic, or significant feature that contributes to the character, image, or cultural identity of the city, the neighborhood, or a particular demographic group.
 - e) Landscape feature. The property is not a significant natural or designed landscape with artistic, aesthetic, cultural, or historical value to the city.

STAFF RECOMMENDATION

Encourage rehabilitation and adaptive reuse, then release the permit. New construction plans will require Commission review.

Biographical Information

Jane Johnson Will Marry At Noon Today

The marriage of Mrs. Jane Johnson and Francis Amsler will be quietly solemnized today at high noon, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Jones, of 504 West Tenth street.

Only the two families will be present and the bridal couple will be unattended. The Rev. Virgil Fisher, pastor of the First Methodist church, will read the ceremony before an altar, built in the bay window of the living room, with a grouping of palms and touches of ivory and gold in the floral decoration to harmonize with the bride's gown of green waffle crepe worn with brown accessories and with corsage of Tallasman roses tied with gold ribbon.

Mrs. Jones, mother of the bride, and Mrs. John Amsler, mother of the groom, will wear corsages of pink sweetheart roses, tied with silver ribbons.

After the ceremony a buffet luncheon with bridal appointments will be served to the bridal couple and the wedding guests, before Mr. Amsler and his bride leave for a brief wedding trip. They will visit San Antonio and spend several days with friends in the hill country of West Texas.

Returning to Austin they will be at home at 203 West 33rd street, where their home is completely furnished and awaiting their coming.

Mr. and Mrs. John Amsler, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Amsler and Mr. and Mrs. Lamar Amsler of Hempstead, will attend the wedding.

FRANCIS AMSLER MADE RETAIL CREDIT OFFICER

TEMPLE, May 23.—(AP)—Alvah Conner of Wichita Falls today was elected president of the Associated Retail Credit Men of Texas in the final session here of the group's annual convention. Conner succeeded G. Bailey Peyton of San Antonio.

New directors named were: H. L. Buelow, Hillsboro; E. E. Reynolds, Abilene; R. A. Ross, Dallas; Francis Amsler, Austin; and G. B. Peyton, San Antonio.

Merger of Four Family And Children's Social Work Agencies Effective Monday

The merger of four Austin family and children's social work agencies into the Child and Family Service, Inc., for a better coordinated program will be effective Monday, Harold Braun, executive secretary of the Community Chest, has announced.

The new combined agency will begin its work Monday at 610 Guadalupe, where it will share space with the Community Chest which has moved from its offices in the Driskill hotel to its new permanent home.

At the same time the four agencies which will close their services are the Family Service society, the Children's Bureau, the PTA School Lunch fund and the Milk fund.

The work of all four of these agencies will be carried on by the Child and Family Service under the supervision of Miss Margaret Watt. For the past several years, Miss Watt has been a supervisor in the Brooklyn Bureau of Charities of Brooklyn, N. Y. During part of that period she was on the faculty of the school of social work of Fordham university.

Mrs. Weeks President

Officers of the agency will be Mrs. O. D. Weeks, president; Art Sprinkle, vice president; Francis Amsler, treasurer, and Miss Watt, executive director.

On the board of directors are Amsler, Mrs. C. P. Arrowwood, the Rev. John Barkley, Mrs. Charles M. Bustin, Jr., R. W. Byram, Joe Carrington, Mrs. J. M. Coleman, Dr. H. J. Ettlinger, Mrs. Newton J. Friedman, Taylor Glass, Rex Hopper, Miss Mona Jarrell, Mrs. Lloyd Jeffress, Mrs. William Kay Miller, Sprinkle, Mrs. R. M. Thomson, Jr., Mrs. Weeks and Lee Wilborn.

The new agency was created as the result of the recommendation made by Paul Beisser last August following a study of the family and children's field in Austin. Beisser, executive director of the St. Louis Provident association and Children's Aid society, came to Austin last year at the request of the Community Chest then headed by W. T. Caswell and the Council of Social agencies.

the Family Service society, and Mrs. Harry Akin, executive of the Children's Bureau have retired from active service as of Saturday. Miss Hall has served as the executive of her organization since 1918.

The Family Service society, one of the oldest social work agencies in Austin, operated for a lengthy period on a volunteer basis before the 1910 when then Mayor A. P. Woolridge decided that the time had come to put this work on a firmer basis. As Austin was then too small to maintain a public welfare department and a private society, there was formed the United Charities association. The city was to pay the expenses of the public department work and funds for the private society work were to be raised by a board of directors from the citizens of Austin.

Divided in 1926

The offices remained at the city hall until 1926, when the city manager form of government was set up. It was then deemed time for the work to be divided. The private society work was incorporated as the Family Service society. The agency has had only three executives, Mrs. Nellie Holden, Mrs. M. Z. King and Miss Hall.

The Children's Bureau, sponsored by the Junior league and supplemented by the Community Chest, was established July 1, 1940, as a specialized agency serving Austin and Travis county children from infancy to 18 years of age.

Mrs. Weeks was first president of the board of directors. Other officers were Mrs. Ben Gebhardt, vice president; Miss Ione Spears, secretary, and Jack Sparks, treasurer.

A total of 2,118 children have been referred to the Children's Bureau since it was established.

Amsler Heads Chest Division

Francis J. Amsler has accepted chairmanship of the employe solicitation division in Austin's united Community and War Chest campaign, Mayor Tom Miller, director of campaign forces, announced Saturday.

Amsler is credit manager of E. M. Scarbrough & Sons and has been president of the Austin Credit Men's association. The mayor said he was pleased that "a young man of his initiative and ability" had taken the chairmanship of the important employe division in the greater part of 329 Austin business firms have already pledged themselves to double their former Community Chest totals.

Chairmen of other campaign divisions, including the women's division, state departments, and the University of Texas, will be announced the early part of this week, the mayor indicated.

Austin will seek to raise $161,599 between Oct. 14 and 21 to take care of Community Chest needs, the Boy Scout budget and all war-time appeals with exception of the Red Cross, which will hold its campaign next spring. War appeals include the USO's 1943 request of $21,480.

Amsler Elected BBB President

Francis J. Amsler, credit manager for E. M. Scarbrough and Sons Department Store, will head the Better Business Bureau of Austin during 1952.

He was elected head of the bureau Monday to succeed J. C. Kellam. Last year he served as vice president and chairman of the membership committee.

George T. Atkins was named vice president; Alden Davis was re-elected treasurer and Howard A. Bergquist was re-elected secretary-manager.

The officers were elected by the board of directors which is composed of Amsler and E. J. St. John, re-elected; Ted Buttrey, A. P. Donley, Howard Kuhlman, Carl Edward Bock and C. A. Rundell. Kellam became an ex officio director.

Scarbrough Treasurer Honored

CORPUS CHRISTI—Francis J. Amsler, credit manager and treasurer of E. M. Scarbrough and Sons of Austin, is the new president of the Retail Merchants Association of Texas.

He was elected by the board of directors during the organization's 60th annual convention here Tuesday.

Amsler has been associated with Scarbrough's for 37 years, the last 31 as credit manager. He was given the additional duty of treasurer in 1949.

He has been active in credit affairs for many years and is currently serving as president of the Retail Merchants Association in Austin. He is a past president of the Retail Credit Executives of Austin and Texas and the Bel-

Downtown Merchants Pick Francis Amsler

Francis Amsler of Scarbrough's is the new chairman of Downtown Austin Unlimited, an organization of merchants set up to promote shopping in the heart of the city.

Morton Plotsky of Jack Morton's is the new vice chairman. Joe K. Wells, Austin National Bank vice president, was re-elected treasurer.

New directors are W. H. Trippensee of S. H. Kress and Company, Loyd Hawthorne of J. C. Penney Company, Jack Minor of Levine's, Larry Craddock of Craddock Furniture Company, Jerry Maddox of Lerner Shops, Irving Mellitz of Zale's Jewelers and Verno Blomquist of Blomquist-Clark.

Most stores will remain open for Christmas shopping to 9 p.m., beginning Monday and extending to Christmas Eve. All merchants were asked at the meeting to advertise their store hours for the benefit of Christmas shoppers.

Dr. William Brown, professor of marketing at The University of Texas, presented ideas for promoting interest in the area's stores. He suggested that store owners sponsor special events in the heart of the city, including a parade similar to those holiday events held in New York and other major cities, or singing of Christmas carols by a choir moving through the streets on a float.

The UT marketing expert also suggested a survey of shoppers' opinions on downtown versus suburban stores.

Congress Avenue To Get New Lights

A new $33,000 lighting program to give Congress Avenue a beam- ing "color-corrected" look won the unanimous vote of the City Council Thursday.

Target date for installation of 88 new mercury vapor lights from the Congress Avenue bridge north to 11th Street is mid-September.

The vote on the brighter look for Austin's business and shopping area followed the appearance of an eight-man delegation from Downtown Austin Unlimited.

Francis Amsler, a Scarbrough's executive and chairman of the businessmen's lighting committee, asked for the new system to replace the present lights which were installed about 1930.

"We believe the new lights will cut present hazards to both traf- fic and pedestrians on the avenue and discourage law violators," Amsler told the council. "It also seems that Congress Avenue leading up to the Texas Capitol should be made as attractive as possi- ble at night."

One test light has already been installed at Sixth and Congress. "Color - corrected" lamps will not change the appearance of store window displays on the ave- nue, Amsler added.

The new system will be financed by a $40,000 fund already set aside for street lighting, but unallocat- ed until Thursday.

The new 1,000-watt lights will replace the present 1,500-watt types which use more electricity but produce less light.

City Electrical Department Chief Dexter Kinney said he will try to have the lights installed by the time University of Texas stu- dents return to the city in September. However, he said that "would be pushing it a lit- tle. We'll definitely have them up by Christmas."

FRANCIS AMSLER

Executive Appointed At Store

Mrs. Margaret Scarbrough Wilson, Scarbrough's president announced this week the ap- pointment of Francis J. Amsler as vice president, store man- ager.

Amsler, a native of Hemp- stead, joined the staff of Scar- brough's as a teenager in 1923 and literally "grew up in the store." He served for many years as credit manager, and more recently as store manag-Amsler, who lives with his wife at 1616 Northumberland, is well-known in Austin civic cir- cles. He has been active in the United Fund, has served on the Board of Child and Family Service Society and on the Board of the Capitol Area Coun- cil of the Boy Scouts of Amer- ica. He is past president of the Better Business Bureau and past chairman of the Downtown Association. During his tenure as credit manager, he served as president of both local and state credit organizations.

He is a member of the Aus- tin Country Club and an elder of the First Southern Presby- terian Church. The Amslers have one daughter, Mrs. J. P. Godleski of Lake Jackson.

Advertising Review Board To Be Headed by Amsler

Francis Amsler, vice-president emeritus of Scarbroughs, has been appointed chairman of the Austin Advertising Review Board.

The board is a joint project of the Austin Better Business Bureau and the Austin Advertising Club. Its purpose is to sustain high standards of truth and accuracy in advertising in the Austin area. Review boards are already established in many cities throughout the nation.

The review board will function as a working arm of the Better Business Bureau. Its membership of 30 will consist of a broad cross-section of advertisers, advertising agencies and consumer representation. The board will operate in panels which will review advertising terms and practices about which there is question concerning content or accuracy. The point in question will already have been reviewed with the advertiser by the advertising department of the Better Business Bureau. It is referred to the AARB only when there is an impasse and the questioned advertising is neither altered nor withdrawn, with arbitration as a possible resolution before further action is required.

Amsler retired Jan. 1, after serving 49 years at Scarbroughs. He now serves the store on special projects. He has served as past president of both the local and state Retail Merchants Associations and Retail Credit Executives. He is a past president of the Austin Better Business Bureau and Downtown Austin Merchants Association.

vertising Review Board, and George Spaulding, president of the Austin Better Business Bureau. The review board is a joint project of the advertising club and the BBB.
