DEMOLITION AND RELOCATION PERMITS

PROPOSAL

Demolish a 1956 church.

ARCHITECTURE

The First Cumberland Presbyterian Church comprises multiple interconnected gable-roofed buildings. The church sanctuary projects toward Woodrow Avenue, with a single lancet window in the end wall. The main entrance, set into a substantial Gothic arch surround, is under a dramatic, modern steeple set back and to the side of the sanctuary. Other wings have simpler architecture but are unified by their variegated orange brick cladding.

RESEARCH

First Cumberland Presbyterian Church was one of Austin's oldest congregations, founded in 1846. The church was located at W. 7th and Lavaca streets from 1892 until 1955, when that building was demolished and a new church constructed at 6800 Woodrow Avenue. The new building included a sanctuary, fellowship hall, kitchen, and 15 classrooms. In 1968, the sanctuary was expanded and additional buildings constructed, including a gymnasium, chapel, and educational facilities.

Architect Doyle M. Baldrige designed the 1956 building and six other Austin-area churches, including the Memorial Methodist Church (6100 Berkman Drive, 1958) and Ward Memorial Church (2105 Parker Lane, 1960), both extant. Baldrige practiced architecture in Austin from 1945 until his death in 1962, working as a designer at Giesecke, Kuehne and Brooks before establishing his own practice. From 1953–1957 he advised on all new construction and major repair projects of the University of Texas system. He served as treasurer of the Texas Society of Architects in 1956.

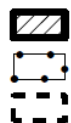

STAFF COMMENTS

- 1) The building is more than 50 years old.
- 2) The building appears to retain high integrity.
- 3) Properties must meet two historic designation criteria for landmark designation (LDC §25-2-352). Staff has evaluated this church for designation as a historic landmark and has determined that it may not meet the criteria for landmark designation as set forth in City Code:
 - a) Architecture. The church has a distinctive, midcentury modern design by local architect Doyle Baldrige and may qualify for historic landmark designation under this criterion.
 - b) Historical association. Although associated with one of the oldest congregations in Austin, this building was constructed nearly 90 years after the church's founding, and no significant events are known to have occurred at this site.
 - c) Archaeology. The church was not evaluated for its potential to yield significant data concerning the human history or prehistory of the region.
 - d) Community value. The church is not known to possess a unique location, physical characteristic, or significant feature that contributes to the character, image, or cultural identity of the city, the neighborhood, or a particular demographic group.
 - e) Landscape feature. The property is not a significant natural or designed landscape with artistic, aesthetic, cultural, or historical value to the city.

STAFF RECOMMENDATION

Encourage rehabilitation and adaptive re-use, but release the permit upon completion of a City of Austin Documentation Package, consisting of photographs of all elevations, a dimensioned sketch plan, and a narrative history, for archiving at the Austin History Center.

Church Site Ceremony On Schedule

Ground will be broken at the site of the new First Cumberland Presbyterian Church, 6800 Woodrow Avenue, in a brief ceremony Sunday at 3 p.m., the pastor, the Rev. E. M. Jennings, announced Saturday.

Actual construction of the new $136,000 edifice will be started Monday morning by Frank R. Rundell, general contractor.

The Rev. Jennings will lift the first spade of earth, deliver the prayer and also make a brief talk. P. B. Griffith, chairman of the board of trustees, also will participate in the ceremony.

The new church replaces the historic old edifice recently razed at Seventh and Lavaca Streets, where it had been standing since it was erected in 1892. The First Cumberland Church congregation, one of the oldest in the city, was organized in 1868.

Plans for the new edifice were drawn by Doyle M. Baldrige, Austin architect.

The building committee of the church is composed of Denzil Fewell, Margaret Zumwalt, Edna Faught, Herman Morisey, Albert Dearing, Sam McCulloch, Phillip Griffith and J. L. Gardner.

Other officers of the church are: Trustees—P. B. Griffith, J. L. Gardner, Denzil Fewell, John E. Zumwalt and Albert Dearing.

Elders—O. J. Faught, Denzil Fewell, Albert Dearing, J. L. Gardner, Dr. J. Stanley Wright, Sam McCulloch, Herman Morisey, H. S. Phillips, and Ernest Zumwalt.

Deacons—Ernest Warden, Calvin Faught, H. L. Dearing, Hudson Griffith, Elmer Paulson, J. C. Bryson, Gerrit Wilkins and J. B. Tobler.

This new building, completed last week for the First Cumberland Presbyterian Church at 6800 Woodrow, will be dedicated Sunday afternoon. The structure, erected at a cost of $128,000, was designed by Doyle M. Baldrige, Austin architect. The building includes 15 classrooms, a fellowship hall, sanctuary and fully equipped kitchen serving the fellowship hall.

First Cumberland Presbyterian's Dedication Will Be Held Today at 3

The new First Cumberland Presbyterian Church will be dedicated at 3 p. m. Sunday with Dr. William Logan, pastor of the University Presbyterian Church and President of the Austin Ministerial Alliance, slated to be the principal speaker.

The new church, constructed at 6800 Woodrow, will replace the former meeting place for the congregation at Seventh Street and Lavaca, according to the Rev. E. M. Jennings, pastor. The old building has been razed.

Erected at a cost of $146,000—including lots, construction and furnishings—the new church is the third building for the Austin Cumberland Presbyterian congregation.

The first meeting site was a log house built after the church was first organized in the Capital City in 1846. With circuit riders and missionaries the church forwarded its services to the people in the early days of organization.

In 1906 there was a merger of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church and the USA Church. However, over 50 per cent of the local remained in the Cumberland Presbyterian Church.

A short time after the merger, the old First Cumberland Church building was sold to the Baptists, at which time the Cumberland members operated a mission here.

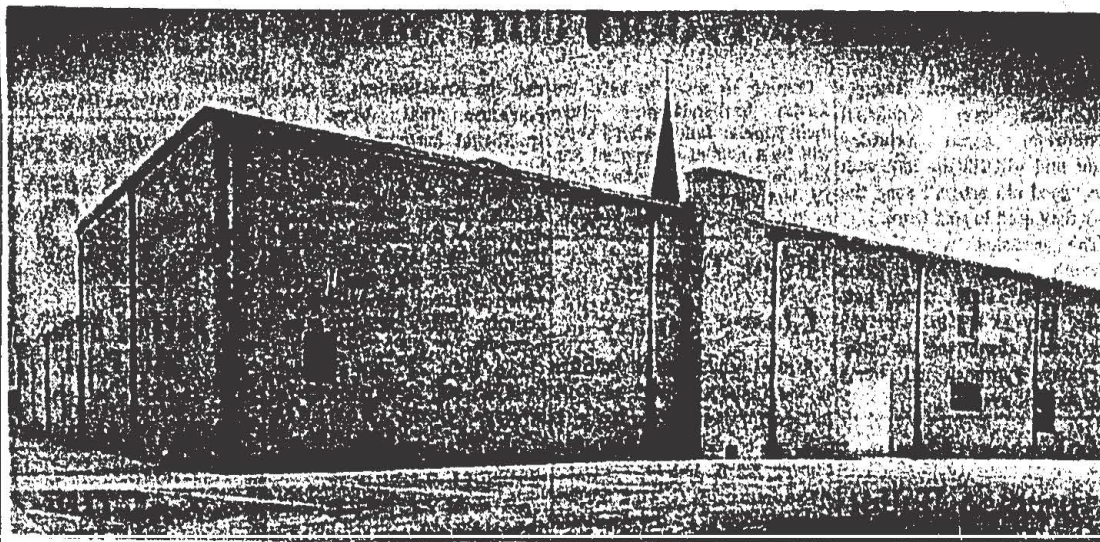

But in 1914, Mrs. George Castleman procured a deed to the church property at Seventh and Lavaca and deeded it to the Cumberland Presbyterian Church. The fellowship hall in the newly-completed First Cumberland Presbyterian Church has been named Castleman Hall in the purchaser's honor.

In 1955, the property was sold and the building site at 6800 Woodrow was purchased.

Spearheading the building project during the past several months has been Denzil Fewell, chairman of the building committee. Members of the committee include Sam McCullough, Herman Morisey, Phillip Griffith, Mrs. Margaret Zumwalt, Mrs. Oscar Faught and Albert Dearing.

Architect for the new church was Doyle M. Baldrige and the general contractor was Frank Rundell. Engineer for the project was W. C. Walcutt and Associates.

First Cumberland Presbyterian Church dedication Sunday

Dedication Sunday

Church Gets Buildings

The First Cumberland Presbyterian Church at 6800 Woodrow Avenue in Bellair Heights, Northwest Austin, will dedicate its new buildings Sunday at 2:30 p.m. Open house will be held from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m.

The buildings include a gymnasium, complete with stage, dressing rooms, shower stalls, fireplace and recreational equipment.

The chapel is designed to accommodate 70 people. The pews and chancel furnishings are colonial, white with walnut caps, having crescent orange cushions on the pews. The carpeting is also crescent orange.

The symbolized windows are traditional. They depict the nativity, crucifixion, resurrection and the descending of the Holy Spirit. The rose window depicts Noah's Arc, the returning dove and the rainbow.

The new educational facilities include a church parlor, a new kitchen, 10 additional classrooms and six restrooms.

An additional parking area to accommodate 50 cars has also been constructed.

The main sanctuary has been remodeled to accommodate an additional 150 persons and the church offices have been relocated in new and improved quarters.

Architect for the new building is Robert Hill of Austin and Houston. General contractor was the James Crutchfield Construction Company. Furnishings were from the Bascom Furniture Company in Keene. Orco, Inc. of San Antonio did the art work and installation of the chapel windows. General contractor for the remodeling was the V. D. Sylvester Company.

Members of the building committee are: Herman Morisey, chairman; Joe Ogden, O. W. Callis, Tom Lowry and Ray Yates.

O. J. Faught is the clerk of session; Joe Ogden, minister of finance; O. W. Callis, chairman of the deaconate; Cy Zaleski, treasurer; Chester Faught, financial secretary.

The pastor is the Rev. Loyce S. Estes, who will begin his ninth year as minister of the church on June 1.

The new structure now places the value of the property at approximately $500,000.

Baldrige, Saunders Launch Partnership

Two Austin architects, Doyle M. Baldrige and William B. Saunders, have announced the formation of a new architectural firm, Baldrige and Saunders, 208 East 10th Street.

Both Baldrige and Saunders have practiced architecture in Austin for many years, and both are members of the American Institute of Architects and the Texas Society of Architects.

Baldrige received a bachelor of architecture degree from the University of Texas in 1933 and has had 20 years of active experience as an architect, practicing in Austin for the past 12 years.

A designer of many churches in the Austin area, Baldrige's most recent projects include the Memorial Methodist Church and the Cumberland Presbyterian Church. Another recent project was the Veterans of Foreign Wars State Headquarters Building, 11th and San Jacinto Streets.

Saunders attended Baylor University and received a bachelor of architecture degree from UT.

For 19 years he was associated as an architect in the office of the supervising architect and the office of the Comptroller of the University of Texas. From 1953-57 he was adviser on all new construction and major repair projects for the entire University of Texas system. He has also been engaged in private consultation since 1946.

Besides his work on University campus buildings, Saunders has also had experience designing residences, office buildings, apartments and apartment hotels.

Also associated with the new firm is Tighe O'Neal, who studied architecture at the University of Texas.
