Description

Through Resolution No. 20201001-055, Austin City Council approved the creation of the Austin Economic Development Corporation (AEDC). The AEDC is structured broadly enough to manage a range of projects, which could include affordable housing development, public-private Partnerships with private-led development. The Music Commission’s appointee to the AEDC board represents the Austin music community and ensures that AEDC vision and planning help support, sustain, and grow the ATX music industry.

Rationale

Emmett Belliveau has served as the Music Commission appointee to the AEDC board since its inception in 2020, and continues to be invested in the work of the AEDC. Emmett’s professional expertise in music, event production, and public policy make him well-suited to this role and the Music Commission is pleased that he will serve a second term as our representative.
