On Palm School and History & Culture

“My father along with his siblings all attended Palm School. It represents a vital part of the history for many families who grew up in East Austin. The connection from Palm School to UJH (University Junior High School) to the old Austin High—which has been restored beautifully—is important to recognizing the reality many families faced living in East Austin . . . There are very few landmarks in Austin that recognize & celebrate the contributions of Mexican Americans to the Austin community.”

“Ladies and gentlemen, citizens of Austin, the time is now. The opportunity is before you. The call to action has been sounded. You own it and you together carry the responsibility and the duty to your neighbors and fellow citizens to make this right. Make it happen.” (p. 32 AIA Report)

The AIA report included a rendering of a potential gateway to Downtown through the Palm District highlighting the Mexican American heritage of the area.

Draft Vision Framework

VISION

The Palm District is a vibrant historic hub of downtown where the past is honored, culture is celebrated, and the future is shaped.

Dense transit-oriented development is balanced with history and natural spaces creating physical connections that invite people to move easily to and through the district.

INCLUSIVE GROWTH

Growth in the district will provide a prosperous future for longtime and recent residents and for established and new businesses.

Inclusive Growth

Create opportunities to use publicly-owned properties for dense, mixed-income housing, places for cultural celebration, and to preserve those sites that are of historical, social, and cultural significance.

Culture

Preserve performance venues in the Red River Cultural District through incentives, public private partnerships, and regulatory tools such as transfer of development rights, historic and landmark designations, and the Iconic Venue Fund.

Connection

Leverage the lowering and replacement of I-35 to create better and more attractive connections between East Austin and the District.

Nature

Improve the Waterloo Greenway, south of Palm Park to the Confluence, through lighting, interpretive signage, and other amenities to invite visitors and residents to explore and experience Waller Creek.
