Our digitally connected world

Method

I used the app Procreate on an iPad with the Apple Pencil.

Subjectmatter

Being able to call my friends that live in other cities to catch up or play games together through the internet has always been incredibly important to me. That's why this artwork features three friends from all different places connecting together and having fun, just as if they were together in person.

Subjectmatter

My artwork represents our ability to connect with anyone, anywhere. I drew people from different backgrounds connecting. I think this is important because I can be in touch with my grandmother, who lives in India. One of my friends lives in Canada and I connect with him via email, something that I would not be able to do without a digital connection. I can explore different interests with different friend groups and online classes, which has been a big part of my life.
