By way of further explanation, my good friend Don Pryor was born on December 21, 1960 (the reason I remember is that he has a big birthday/Christmas party on this date every year). His older sister Kerry remembers living in this house before they moved to a house Cactus was building on Brady Lane. Kerry told me that she does not object to demolition of Ridgewood. Please let me know if I need to get her to send you a statement to this effect. I never went to the house on Brady but spent a lot of time at the house on Blue Ridge Trail where Cactus lived from 1967 until well into the 2000s before he went to the nursing home. Thus, I believe this is the home most closely associated with the Pryors. I know your research has been hampered by lack of access to the Austin History Center but I may be able to fill in some gaps- just let me know.

Thanks

Thank you for the update. I have some additional information for Kalan. The Pryors did not live in this house more than 5 years so there is not much association. I saw Cactus' granddaughter at dinner on Tuesday and she said the "real Pryor House" is on Blue Ridge Trail. That house looks like an A.D. Stenger but is not (odd because he and Cactus were friends). I am hopeful this information will be enough for the application to be released.
