

Who Can Vote in the May 4, 2024 City of Austin Election

The City is holding six separate special elections on May 4, 2024. These elections are not citywide, so most voters in Austin will not have a City of Austin item to vote on this May.

Each of the six elections is on the question of disannexation of a particular area or neighborhood in Austin. Only the voters registered in the area may vote on the issue of disannexation of that area. The area in question is briefly described in the ballot language for the proposition, and the list of registered voters provided by Travis County will indicate which individuals are eligible to vote in that election.

Click here to see maps of the areas that are subject to an election this May.

<https://services.austintexas.gov/edims/document.cfm?id=422663>