Naming/Renaming Process

- The process for naming or renaming a park facility is in Austin City Code of Ordinances
 - Section 14-1-36,
 - Section 14-1-37,
 - Section 14-1-39.

Naming/Renaming Process

On October 20, 2023, the Parks and Recreation Department Director notified the Parks and Recreation Board, City Manager, and City Council via written correspondence of an application to rename the Bathhouse at Barton Springs to the Joan Means Khabele Bathhouse at Barton Springs

Barton Springs Bathhouse History

- Built in 1947 replacing an earlier wooden structure
- 1987 City Council Resolution 870319-15 approved the naming of a portion of the Barton Springs Bathhouse “BJ ‘Buster’ Robinson Sr. Information Center”
- May 8, 1997 naming of the Beverly S. Sheffield Education Center likely completed administratively
- Both preceded Austin’s current Code
- Both align with current code definition of “feature”
- Appropriate for the existing feature names to remain

Joan Means Khabele

- Born October 22, 1942
- Attended Blackshear Elementary and Kealing Junior High
- Among the third group of students to integrate Austin High School
- Late 1950s first Black person to jump into Barton Springs Pool in an act of civil disobedience
- Sparked a movement of swim-ins that took place weekly throughout the summer of 1960
- Organized students from Austin High, University of Texas, St. Edwards and Huston Tillotson University in protest- leading to desegregation of Barton Springs Pool and Zilker Paek years before the 1964 federal civil rights laws
