Introduction

At the onset of crafting our next Success by Six Strategic Plan, we made a deliberate choice to infuse every stage of the process with a commitment to racial equity, ensuring that the voices of families in our community were centered. This approach, termed "co-construction," involved the active participation and iterative feedback of the SX6 leadership team, workgroups, coalition members, organizations, and community members over an eighteen-month period. As we journeyed through this process, a shared aspiration emerged: to establish a universal vision for the children in our community. However, confronting the persistent racial disparities within our community, we recognized the imperative to address them directly. Thus, alongside overarching goals tailored to all families in Austin/Travis County, each pillar of our plan incorporates targeted objectives aimed at specific groups disproportionately affected by historical and current inequities. This dual approach not only fosters inclusivity but also accelerates progress towards our overarching vision by strategically targeting areas of greatest need.

Strategic Plan Format

Each pillar is written in the following format

- Universal Vision Statement: States the
- Community Data
- Targeted Goal Statement
- Strategies

Pillar	Healthy Beginnings

	development that will generate action from caregivers to policymakers.
Strategy 4.4	Our community will highlight existing, and advocate for the development of, safe and joyful spaces rooted in child-centered learning and intentionally designed for all families.	TBD
Strategy 4.5	Increase alignment in public-private sector funding levels to reflect the importance of the prenatal to age 5 period.	Leadership Team, Early Matters Greater Austin, Early Childhood Council
Strategy 4.6	The SX6 Coalition will implement equity within its structures and processes, ensuring it truly represents the Austin/Travis County community. This involves prioritizing BIPOC families in decision-making and placing a deliberate focus on achieving racial equity in early childhood outcomes.	Equity Workgroup
Areas to maintain	Build the capacity for advocacy and utilize data to inform efforts.

Glossary of Terms

- Access to early care and education: parents, with reasonable effort and affordability, can enroll their child in an arrangement that supports the child’s development and meets the parents’ needs.
- Affordable: the financial burden experienced by families when participating in an early childhood program or service is feasible. Affordability includes factors such as out-of-pocket expenses, income-based co-payments, and the percentage of family income dedicated to the costs of participation.
- BIPOC: stands for Black, Indigenous, People of Color and is an umbrella term used to refer to people who are not white. BIPOC is used to acknowledge the shared experiences of marginalization and discrimination faced by Black and Indigenous people throughout history, as well as people of color more broadly. It also highlights the disproportionate impact of systemic racism on Black and Indigenous communities.
- Culturally affirming: a philosophy or approach that recognizes and respects the cultural backgrounds, experiences, and identities of the students, parents, clients, etc. Key components of culturally affirming practices include honoring diverse identities and perspectives; using an asset based approach that builds on strengths; creates inclusive environments that foster a sense of belonging; and encourages critical consciousness that examines topics such as power and privilege.

- Cultural humility: the ability to understand a person's identities related to race, ethnicity, gender, sexual orientation, socioeconomic status, education, and social needs.
- Developmentally appropriate parenting supports: strategies and practices that parents can use to nurture their child's growth and development at each stage of childhood. These approaches consider a child's physical, cognitive, social, and emotional capabilities and provide the necessary support for them to learn and thrive.
- Equitable: something that is fair or just, especially in terms of distributing resources, opportunities, or benefits. It entails ensuring that everyone has access to what they need to thrive, regardless of their background, identity, or circumstances, and often involves recognizing and addressing existing disparities, inequalities and systemic racism and oppression.
- High-quality: the definition for high-quality early care and education programs is based upon the data sources available and does not always encompass other quality measures that we do not have data for or may not be quantifiable. As such, for the purposes of this strategic plan, a high-quality early care and education program meets one or more of the following criteria: 1) is nationally accredited by the National Association for the Education of Young Children (NAEYC) or the National Accreditation Commission for Early Care and Education Programs (NAC), and/or other national accreditation recognized by the Texas Workforce Commission; 2) has a Texas Rising Star four-star quality rating; 3) is an Early Head Start/Head Start (EHS/HS) program
- Perinatal: the period of time when you become pregnant and up to a year after giving birth.
- Postnatal: "after birth;" refers to the period of time immediately after birth
- Prenatal: "before birth;" refers to the period of time from becoming pregnant up to one year after giving birth.
- Prenatal development: includes the development of the embryo and fetus during gestation, which begins at fertilization and continues until birth.
- Racial disparities: the imbalances and incongruities between the treatment of racial groups, including economic status, income, housing options, societal treatment, safety, and myriad other aspects of life and society.
- Trauma-informed care: a framework that helps people who have experienced negative consequences after exposure to dangerous experiences. It focuses on the impact of trauma on an individual's life, including how trauma may affect their response to behavioral health services. TIC can improve patient engagement, treatment adherence, health outcomes, and provider and staff wellness.
- Trauma-informed parenting supports: strategies and approaches that parents can use to raise a child who has experienced trauma in a healthy and supportive way. These approaches acknowledge the impact of trauma on a child's development, behavior, and emotional well-being, and aim to create a safe and healing environment. Support may also include addressing trauma experienced by the parent.

- Workforce development: programs, policies, and activities used to sustain, create, and retain a workforce. It is a key component of community economic development that focuses on people rather than businesses to enhance a region's economic stability and prosperity.
