PUBLIC COMMUNICATION: GENERAL

Speaker 1: Luis Ordaz Gutiérrez, Artistic Director of Proyecto Teatro, shared that Latino communities in the city had experienced significant and disproportionate disinvestment over the past 40 years, highlighting the prevalence of million-dollar investments benefiting primarily white institutions and questioned the lack of comparable funding advancing Latino culture. He expressed disappointment when he saw that the six recommendations presented during the March board meeting were not included on the April agenda, noting that they were developed by members of the cultural ecosystem to advance Latino culture. He urged the board to place those recommendations on a future agenda, emphasizing their importance and possibility to provide critical, potentially life-saving support for the Latino cultural ecosystem.

Speaker 2: Hector Ordaz Gutiérrez, Audiovisual Director of Proyecto Teatro registered to speak on item 7 & 8.

Speaker 3: Gonzalo Barrientos, Former State Senator stated that it took decades to establish the Mexican American Cultural Center. Following its establishment, challenges arose regarding organizational oversight and management. He explained that over the years he received numerous inquiries about the MACC and had typically referred individuals to the advisory committee or City Council. He expressed his willingness to assist the Board with specific matters when appropriate but stressed that the Board must represent the community’s interests. Mr. Barrientos drew attention to the importance of engaging with City Council members, noting that they play a key role in advancing initiatives and addressing community concerns. He provided an example involving a mural by Raul Valdez, Los Elementos, formerly located at Juarez-Lincoln University. He indicated that the mural was demolished and later approved as a recommendation for action in 2023. He questioned why the project had not yet been completed, stating that it should have been finalized three years ago. Mr. Barrientos concluded by offering to meet with Board members to provide additional information and recommendations.

Speaker 4: Anna Maciel, Former ESB-MACC Board Chair provided comment regarding the Awards of Excellence. She expressed concern about the inclusion of board members on the selection committee, stating her belief that voting should be conducted by community organizations to ensure broader representation. She encouraged the MACC to take a more expansive and inclusive approach, noting that the awards should reflect cultural contributions beyond the arts alone. She recommended broadening the vision and criteria used when reviewing applications. Ms. Maciel also addressed Agenda Item #7, sharing her perspective on the history of the Latino Arts Residency Program. She described the challenges she experienced in advocating for the program’s preservation and stated that staff had previously supported efforts to eliminate it. She urged the board to recognize the importance of community-wide involvement, rather than limiting participation to a specific group, and called for greater respect and consideration for artists and emerging artists. Additionally, Ms. Maciel noted the importance of how the organization approaches situations involving artists and expressed concern about maintaining respect in those processes. She communicated her intention to submit letters from community members to the board for further review.

Speaker 5: Javier Salas, organizer from MexAmeriCon, introduced himself and provided an overview of the organization, explaining that it was a volunteer-led initiative established in 2018 that supports comic book creators, artists, and storytellers. He requested the Board’s support in securing space for MexiAmeriCon at the MACC.
