Briefing: National Register of Historic Places Nomination
San Bernard National Register Historic District

Proposal

A valid nomination to the National Register of Historic Places has been submitted to the Texas Historical Commission and Keeper of the National Register for a district roughly encompassing both sides of San Bernard St. between Rosewood Ave. to the south and Bob Harrison St. to the north, the east side of Navasota St. between Rosewood Ave. to the south and E. 12th St. to the north, and the west side of Navasota St. between Olive St. to the south and Catalpa St. to the north.

Austin's Historic Landmark Commission is required by the provisions of the State of Texas Certified Local Government program to comment on National Register nominations and to notify the THC and CLG program coordinators of its position. Copies of all draft nominations and meeting information are available in backup materials.

Recommendation

Recommend approval of the San Bernard National Register Historic District to the State Board of Review and Keeper of the National Register.
